DRUGGIST'S POCKET PACKET STOPS BANDIT BULLET

When bandits leveled a revolver at Harry Bluestone in his drug store at 547 Shady avenue last night, he reached for his gun and fired point blank at nearest holdup man. An answering bullet from one of the bandit's gun tore through Bluestone's coat, flattened against a packet of papers and letters in his pocket and dropped to floor. In ensuing cross-fire, the bandits escaped. Bluestone insisted he wounded one.

Looking Over the Water. The World's Real Ocean. Where's the $1,200 Man? Alaska, Champion Bargain.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Jan. 11.

THIS spot, on the edge of the Pacific Ocean, supplies texts for sermons, or philosophical musing—especially at four in the morning, with the white line of the sun just visible in the moonlight.

YOU see only rolling breakers and gray water beyond, but you know of things that you cannot see.

Asia is across the water, and Ceylon pearlfishers are going "all naked to the hungry shark;" old temples of India tangled in the jungle; 400,000,000 patient Chinese bearing their burdens; 60,000,000 clever Japanese ruling their neighbors, because they borrow knowledge; Koreans and Filipinos crying for independence that they won't get, because they are not ready for it; sacred monkeys, around a Hindu temple; sacred snakes, worshiped in a Chinese temple, and yellow gold, the important power everywhere.

TO the south shines a gigantic planet, with its own little "ring" of mist, defying the greater light and bigger ring of the moon. More important, to men in their boats, is the little San Simeon lighthouse, flashing its intermittent light on a rocky point to the north.

THAT light shines over its path of water, lights and warns of rocks close by. Such are the wisdom and science of man, lighting our way in this little corner of space, which is the limit of our knowing and thinking.

THOSE that live along the little eastern ocean should come here, see the world's real ocean, and know for themselves how hard it is for a human mind to think across interstellar space to our nearest star neighbor.

WITH the rising of the sun, comes Steve of San Luis Obispo, bringing the latest edition of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, and that newspaper, with news of Alaska, in big letters, reminds you of interesting and profitable things too far away.

FROM the Seattle P. I. you learn that it is hard to make a mistake, when you buy on this continent. Seward bought Alaska from Russia for $8,000,000. The purchase was really engineered as a plausible way to hand American money to certain Russians that needed it. "Seward's Folly," that purchase was called. Since this country has owned it, Alaska has sent us $366,000,000 in gold and $110,000,000 worth of furs, among other things.

THIS great traffic from Alaska is enriching Seattle, and the process has only begun. Publishers are interested in two pulp and paper mills, to be built in Southeastern Alaska to cost more than $10,000,000 each and produce 500 tons daily. You'll never pick up such a bargain as Seward got in Alaska, but buy something in this country. Take care of it and, if you pick wisely, it will take care of you.

THE big problem is to make sure that each has a fair chance, and that we hold what we have, in the way of prosperity. That we really have real prosperity, compared with other times and other countries, is easily proved.

FINAL FIGHT BEGUN TO SAVE RUTH, JUDD

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Feverish, eleventh-hours efforts to stay the execution of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, set for tomorrow night, were mapped out by attorneys for the condemned couple today on the heels of Gov. Alfred E. Smith's denial of executive Clemency.

Judd Gray's chief counsel, Samuel L. Miller, is en route to Sing Sing to obtain the doomed man's signature to an application for a writ of habeas corpus, which the lawyer planned to present to Federal Judge Goddard in New York City this afternoon.

Mrs. Snyder's attorneys were also in touch with each other on the next legal steps they will take.

TO ASK STAY

Miller said he would ask the Federal Court to stay the execution on the grounds that, first, the selection of the jury at the trial was influenced by Mrs. Snyder's lawyers, and, second, Gray's opportunity for a fair trial was prejudiced by the fact that he was

FRANCES M. STEWART

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen yesterday refused appeal of the Pennsylvania Railroad for a new trial in the suit of Frances M. Stewart, 19, of 7412 Schoyer avenue, Swissvale, who was awarded $12,000 damages. Miss Stewart was struck by a lowering vestibule platform on a Pennsylvania train at Copeland station, August 27, 1925, while on her way to work. She was knocked under the wheels of the train, sustaining injuries which resulted in the amputation of her left leg.

THEY MUST DIE—SMITH

Judd Gray

Governor Smith

Ruth Snyder

THE text of Governor Smith's announcement refusing clemency for Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray follows:

"This case has received my anxious consideration, not merely since the hearing before me upon the application for executive clemency, but ever since the Court of Appeals unanimously affirmed the conviction of the defendants.

"The execution of this judgment on a woman is so distressing that I had hoped that the appeal to me for executive clemency would disclose some fact that would justify my interference with the processes of the law.

"But this did not happen. I have searched in vain for any basis which my conscience, in the light of my oath of office, will approve on which I might temper the law with mercy.

"Up to this writing there is no extenuation shown for what the seven judges of the Court of Appeals, in agreement with the 12 jurors and the trial justice, have found to be a deliberate and premeditated murder committed by these defendants.

"The application for executive clemency is therefore denied. ALFRED E. SMITH."

Clear Four In Mexico Report

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Four Senators named in the Mexican documents published in the Hearst newspapers were given a clean bill of health today in a partial report submitted to the Senate by the special committee which investigated the documents.

The four Senators were Norris, of Nebraska; Heflin, of Alabama; Borah, of Idaho, and La Follette, of Wisconsin.

The committee found that the documents were spurious and that signature purporting to be of President Calles, who allegedly ordered the payment of $1,215,000 to the Senators, were forged.

The committee reported it was not able to learn who manufactured the spurious documents and said it would go more fully into this question.

A prolonged discussion was precipitated on the floor after the report was presented by Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman.

Reed told Senator Norris that he suspected Miguel Avila, who procured some of the documents, of "forgery" and believed that John Page, who wrote the series of articles, had "committed perjury" before the committee.

"The special committee created by Senate Resolution 7, to investigate alleged ordering of payments to United States Senators by representatives of foreign governments, makes this partial re-

KILLER IS HIMSELF KILLED

Two gang killers missed the "marked man" last night when they entered the Pangallo Brothers' shoe factory, 346 Broadway, Stowe township, and emptied their revolvers into Joseph Lucisano, 32, of 80 Norton street, Mt. Washington, an employe, while he was at work at a lathe. With 11 bullet holes in his body, Lucisano never regained consciousness in Ohio Valley Hospital.

An hour later the murder car was overtaken on Liberty avenue near Fourteenth street by rival gangsters, and John Daniell, 25, of 25 Reed street, was shot and killed by a volley of bullets. The car then swerved into the retaining wall of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the other gangster fled from the wreckage.

While two customers were in the shoe shop, two men entered, and without speaking, opened fire on Lucisano. Waiting until their victim fell, the men rushed to the street and sped away in an automobile they had left at the curb. The car answers the description of the machine wrecked on Liberty

Four Pittsburgh gang murders in three days indicate that the total for 1928 will pass the 28 slayings attributed to blackhand, liquor and white slave gang warfare in 1927.

January 8—Raymond Carbonia, 31 Fleming way, Stowe township.

January 10—Joseph Lucisano, 80 Norton street, Mt. Washington.

January 10—John Daniell, 25 Reed street.

Think Hornsby Talked Himself Into Transfer

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Stunned baseball fans and sports writers, searching for the colored gentleman in the woodpile, today advanced the following possible explanations for the virtual dismissal of Rogers Hornsby by the Giants, who yesterday traded their star to the Boston Braves:

1. That Hornsby talked too much last year in telling friends what he would do when he became manager of the Giants, following the expected retirement of McGraw.

2. That the New York club wearied of Hornsby's legal difficulties. After refusing to sell his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals until he got his price, Hornsby was the winner of a suit for $94,000 recently brought against him by Frank Moore, Cincinnati betting commissioner, for an alleged gambling debt.

3. That Hornsby's habit of instructing other members of the Giants how to play their position caused resentment and dissension on the team.

4. That the trade was a philanthropic gesture to strengthen the Braves, who are on the rocks financially and have been playing to crowds no larger than a church congregation on a good golfing Sunday.

U. S. PLANE KILLS NINE REBELS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—Rebels attempting a concentration four miles north of Quilali in the province of Nueva Segovia yesterday were attacked by a United States marine airplane commanded by Maj. Ross E. Rowell and nine of the rebels were killed and three wounded.

United States marines occupy Quilali and careful watch for an attempt of the Sandino forces to make a sudden raid led to the discovery of the rebel contingents assembling from various quarters for a possible assault on the town. Flying over the groups Rowell dropped bombs and dispersed them. He said he might have done much more damage, had he so desired.

Col. Mason Gulick, in command of marines in Nicaragua, declared today that planes would be sent out regularly to bomb the rebels when and wherever they appeared.

SALESMAN SEIZED BY FATHER OF GIRL, 13, AS HER ABDUCTOR

TOOK HER TO HOTEL HERE

Possible mistreatment of a 13-year-old girl, abducted from Sharon and left in a North Side hotel last night, was prevented, police say, when the girl went to the Allegheny Police Station and her father, a guard in the Allegheny County Jail, caught her abductor, a 48-year-old traveling salesman.

In Morals Court today, the girl, Martha Huebster, told how Douglas Smallwood, of 1214 Sherman avenue, had brought her in his automobile from Sharon, and had left her in front of Jack's hotel, Federal street, with a command to go in and register. Smallwood, denying nothing, answered the charges with a shrug of the shoulders.

The girl's parents are separated. For several years she has stayed with an uncle, Frank Dashbaugh, proprietor of a Sharon hotel. She had seen Smallwood there numerous times.

Yesterday as she was en route to school he stopped his car beside her, she testified, and said he would bring her to Pittsburgh to see an aunt. On the trip, she said, she was compelled to fight off his advances.

Left at the hotel, she registered and paid for a room with $2 given her by Smallwood, she said. When he failed to return in two hours, she went to the police station, where she met her father, John Huebster, who had been notified of her disappearance.

Huebster, after a short hunt, found Smallwood and had him arrested. Today Magistrate A. D. Brandon held Smallwood for further hearing.

FINAL FIGHT FOR SLAYERS

forced to be tried jointly with the woman.

If the Federal judge were to grant the writ of habeas corpus, Gray would have to be produced in court, and thus his execution would be stayed.

Both the blonde Mrs. Snyder and her black-haired former sweetheart asked the same question of their guards this morning:

"What did Gov. Smith do about our clemency plea?"

Both were given evasive answers. Up to 11 o'clock neither had been informed of the Governor's decision.

Gray ate a hearty breakfast. He seemed to be in good spirits. He has shown more interest in things since his wife, Mrs. Isabel Gray, called yesterday and forgave him for the tragedy he brought upon her life and that of their 10-year-old daughter, Jane.

APPETITE POOR

Mrs. Snyder's appetite, however, was poor.

"Just a glass of orange juice," she said to the matron.

Her characteristic defiant demeanor was gone. She had little to say and appeared to be preoccupied. She spent most of the forenoon lying upon her cot.

The three members of the state lunacy commission, headed by Dr. George Smith, arrived at the prison a few minutes before noon and went at once to the cells of Mrs. Snyder and Gray to make a last examination of the condemned couple.

Except for possible court action this commission is the final ray of hope that either of the doomed prisoners entertain. If one or more of the commission believed that either Mrs. Snyder or Gray is insane it might give Gov. Smith an opportunity to reconsider his decision not to grant a stay of execution.

MISS INTENDED VICTIM

The shoe repairing shop of Joseph Pangallo, 346 Broadway, Stowe township, where gangsters emptied their guns into Joseph Lucisano, of Norton street, who was at work on a lathe in the shop. According to Chief of Police Thomas Saunders, standing in the doorway, the gang guns were intended for Joseph Pangallo, who was at his home when the shooting occurred.

GANG CAR WRECKED

After spreading death in Stowe township, the murder car sped in to Pittsburgh and was overtaken by rival gangsters at Liberty avenue and Fourteenth streets. A volley of shots was poured into the sedan and the driver, attempting to dodge the shots, swung his car into the retaining wall of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The other gangster occupant of the car was riddled by shot. He is John Daniell, of 25 Reed street. Daniell was killed. The driver escaped.

ARREST 3 IN BANK EMPLOYE HOLDUP

Three youths who, detectives say, admit staging the daylight holdup of Leo Wiseman, Washington Trust Company messenger, Monday, were arrested early this morning in their homes. The suspects are John Siendiski, 17, of 2503 Penn avenue; his brother, Albert, 20, said to be the leader of the gang, and Stanley Szareyko, 19, of 2641 Penn avenue.

Wiseman was slugged and robbed of a bag containing $4,000 in certified checks and $20 in cash. He was held up at Twenty-fifth street, near Penn avenue.

City Detectives James Swearingen, George Frank, Edward O'Rourke and William Egan, investigating the holdup since it occurred, made the arrests. The suspects are being held at Central Station charged with being suspicious persons.

Police are trying to connect them with other recent holdups. They will be given a hearing today.

CHAMBERLIN BEGINS GRIND

By International News Service.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 11.—In an attempt to reclaim the world's endurance record, now held by Germany, Clarance Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, and Roger Williams, commercial aviator, took to the air at 12:13 this afternoon with sufficient fuel to remain aloft 60 hours.

The present record is 52 hours and 22 minutes, established in Germany last August when the old mark set by Chabmerlin and Bert Acosta was shattered.

Although the Chamberlin plane has a fuel capacity of 500 gallons, only 440 were carried today, owing to the sogginess of the runway and the danger of taking off with the heavy load.

Carl A. Schorey, secretary of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association, sealed the barograph just before the take-off.

The machine Chamberlin took up today is of Bellanca construction, owned by A. R. Martine, New York banker.

Both fliers worked late into the night preparing for the flight, which Chamberlin had declared he would make under almost any reasonable conditions.

CUT PRICE ON PEERLESS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—Price reductions of from $50 to $1,150 on three 1928 models were announced yesterday by the Peerless Motor Car Corporation. $39,000 AUTHORIZED FOR COUNTY'S PARKS

The county commissioners have authorized the transfer of $39,000 from the general fund to the county parks fund. Of this amount $25,000 is to be spent on new equipment, materials and salaries for park employes. The balance of the money will be used for the purchasing of additional park property.

NO CREPE ON DOOR OF WINTER HOME

With no form of funeral service, the body of Raymond Winter, executed at Rockview Monday for the murder of two children, will be interred tomorrow about 3 p. m. in the Homewood Cemetery. No badge of mourning has marked the Brentwood home of Winter's parents, where the body has reposed since last night.

The desire of Winter's family to avoid a public funeral or a crowd of curious onlookers at the house is being carried out. There have been no callers except close friends. A few of Winter's boyhood friends may be called as pallbearers.

avenue, and also the one seen when Joseph Pangallo, owner of the shoe shop, was bombed as he entered his car in Wylie avenue last November.

WRONG MAN KILLED

Lucisano, at the time he was shot, was working at John Pangallo's lathe. According to Chief of Police Thomas Saunders, of Stowe township, the gunmen intended to kill John Pangallo, whose brother, Joseph Pangallo, was injured recently by rival gangsters in Wylie avenue.

Chief Saunders believes the gunmen, having no description of their victim, were instructed to fire at the workman at the first lathe in the store. Pangallo was home at dinner when the shooting occurred.

Joseph Formose, 15, and Paul Degionne, 14, who were in the shop when the shooting occurred, were taken to the Stowe township jail, and after they had been questioned were released.

A meager description of the men and the car was sent to city and county detectives by Chief Saunders, and when the second murder was committed detectives linked the wrecked car with the machine used in the Stowe township murder.

Two gray hats, one with two bullet holes in it, were found in the wrecked car, along with a revolver and a bloody holster. The curtains in the rear of the sedan were drawn Daniell was pronounced dead at the West Penn Hospital.

Operation Reforms Crook

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—The surgeons' knife was credited today with having "reformed" Edward D. Lyle, 23, who had been indicted almost a year ago for first degree robbery and assault.

After undergoing an operation for sinus trouble, another for the removal of his tonsils, the extraction of five abscessed teeth, treatment for intestinal trouble and abnormal blood pressure, Lyle was permitted to plead guilty to a charge of petty larceny. He was remanded for sentence January 20, and may receive a suspended sentence.

Lyle, a Staten Island insurance broker, was arrested for stealing, at the point of a gun, a $2,000 automobile from a demonstrator. Dr. William B. Pritchard, an alienist for the prosecution in the trial of Harry K. Thaw, testified that sinus trouble had caused partial cessation of the blood circulation in Lyle's brain, resulting in irrepressible criminal tendencies.

Take Six More Bodies From Hulk of S-4

23 OF 40 DEAD OUT NOW

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Jan. 11.—(AP.)—The bodies of six more of the submarine S-4's crew were recovered this morning in the motor compartment by Divers Thomas Campbell and Frank Crilley. These brought the total recovered to 23.

Forty men lost their lives when the undersea boat was rammed and sunk off Wood End Light, Cape Cod, on the evening of December 17.

Campbell entered the sunken submarine through the motor compartment hatch. Crilley remained outside of the submarine. Campbell found two bodies almost directly under the hatch. After he had passed them up to Crilley, he made his way aft and found four more. These were also passed up to Crilley.

Campbell then located a seventh body, lying between the air compressors, but was notified that his time was up and was ordered to come to the surface. The two divers tied the six bodies to a single hauling line and they were pulled up and placed on the tender Bushnell.

Looks Like 'Frisco For Democrats' Marathon—Will

WILL ROGERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—I haven't spoke to a one of my Republican friends. The minute the dinner and the convention city is picked, I can take up any Republican offer.

Say, the Democrats are flocking in here from all over, Cleveland, Chicago and Frisco are the three cities they will pick from, and Frisco is the only one with a certified check, so it looks like we gather there from June to December. Cleveland wants it because they never saw a Democrat. But everybody is pulling for Frisco.

Visited the Senate? Yes, nothing. Yours,

COURT PUTS KEY IN PADLOCKS

"Padlock" injunction suits instituted two years ago in the Federal District Court against saloons conducted by Mike Slat, 802 Butler street; Jacob Kmonk, 1101 Carson street, and Alexander Weinstein, Frankstown avenue, and, in which temporary injunctions had been granted, were dismissed today on motions made by United States District Attorney John D. Meyer.

In the motions asking dismissal of the bills of complaint and vacation of the proceedings, it was set forth there was not sufficient evidence to sustain the allegations brought against the saloon proprietors and owners of the properties.

ARREST PAROLE VIOLATOR

Federal bench warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Robert "Red" Crystal, a former Turtle Creek saloonkeeper, for failing to report to Supt. Rollo H. McBride, of the Parting of the Ways Home, Crystal's parole officer. Judge W. H. S. Thomson paroled Crystal December 16, when, upon the recommendation of United States District Attorney John D. Meyer, a 14-month penitentiary sentence was changed to a three-year parole.

In asking a parole for Crystal, convicted of conspiring to impersonate government prohibition officers and "shaking down" saloon-keepers, Meyer mentioned the "manner in which Crystal had been treated by his attorney in the original trial." Meyer's letter recommending parole did not identify Crystal's attorney.

The motion for the bench warrant was made by Assistant United States District Attorney Joseph A. Richardson.

And here we have four other fair damosels who, patiently, without difficulty, won the votes of the judges. On the left is none other than Edith DeVand, the original "Miss Ohio," a little girl who can cook and sew but prefers a career to a husband. Next to her is Christine Cryns, 357 Meyran avenue, whom Pittsburghers will remember as "Miss Schenley" in the 1927 beauty fashion contest; Gladys Cookman, "Miss Washington," who wants to travel and "do something really fine on the stage," and Betty La Mont, "Miss Cleveland," who baked an honest-to goodness cake in the apartment which the girls occupy while playing in Pittsburgh.

BEAUTIFUL OHIO

And here we have another view of Miss Ohio, charming in a Spanish shawl.

BREAKS PAROLE, GETS 3 YEARS

Violation of his parole resulted in Stanley "Ham" Rogers, of South Nineteenth and Sarah streets, confessed drug peddler, being sentenced to three years in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in the United States District Court, today. Rogers, paroled last February, failed to cease trafficking in narcotics, according to government agents.

Gin Hot Stuff, Man Calls Firemen; Arrested

Under the delusion he was being pursued by thugs, police say, Claude Brown, 32, Negro, of 1542 Clark street, pulled fire box 152 at Wylie avenue and Fullerton street, today, to summon help. Firemen of three engine companies who responded, arrested the Negro, who they said had imbibed too freely of gin.

ADMITS HE WAS IN HOLDUP

Arrested early this morning in his home at 201 Devilliers street, James Cri, 22, admitted to police that he was one of three robbers who Monday night attempted to hold up the confectionery store of Benjamin Taffel at Craft avenue and Forbes street. He is being held in the Oakland Police Station.

Fire in Tub for Light Brings Firemen

A worker's novel method of obtaining light sent fire engines rushing to Third avenue and Grant street this morning and attracted hundreds of downtown shoppers.

In the old Charters store building, the worker set wood afire in a tin washtub in the basement so that he might have light by which to labor. Smoke brought the engines.

LIBERTY BRIDGE OPENING DELAYED UNTIL SPRING

BAD NEWS FOR MOTORISTS

Thousands of motorists, awaiting anxiously the opening of the new Liberty Bridge, which connects the South Side, South Hills and Mt. Washington with the downtown and Oakland districts, were disappointed by announcement that construction was six months behind schedule and probably would not be completed before April 1. The bridge is 2,663 feet in length and is expected to be one of the most important links in solving the traffic problem of the city and county. Unseasonable weather was blamed for the delay by Norman F. Brown, county director of public works, but hurried progress was promised once the elements favor the contractors. This picture was snapped near the Liberty Tubes. The bridge becomes a two-story affair at the Allies boulevard, connecting with the boulevard and meeting Forbes street by means of a subway and ramp.

PAPERS STOP BANDIT'S SHOT

A thick wad of notebooks and papers saved the life of Harry Bluestone, proprietor of the Shady Avenue Pharmacy, 547 Shady avenue, last night when a bullet fired by one of two holdup men who tried to rob the store struck the papers bulging in Bluestone's inside coat pocket and glanced off. He suffered but a slight scratch on the chest. Bluestone exchanged shots with the robbers and chased them for more than a block before they eluded him.

Bluestone told detectives that he recently had purchased a revolver because his store had been held up a few weeks ago. He said that when the robbers ordered him to throw up his hands, he drew his revolver and fired. Both robbers returned the fire and turned and ran from the store, one slipping to his knees and dropping his weapon. The gun was found and turned over to police.

Judd Had Doomed Wife To Death, Ruth Charges

As the time before her death in expiation dwindles to a matter of hours, Ruth Snyder amplifies her story of the murder of Albert Snyder in these revelations today:

That Judd Gray planned the death of his wife a year before the murder of Albert Snyder.

That he gave her the first drink she ever took, and that her abstention from liquor and cigarets first attracted him to hre. She says he called her an "antique."

That Judd wanted her to make love to his father-in-law, then sue the father-in-law for breach of promise to get money, "J. G.'s biggest aim in life."

That, "With all J. G. has said and lied, I still feel no malice toward him—I pity him—and his loved ones."

AT SUN-TELE CORNER

SNOOZER, JR.

Snoozer, Jr., most famous dog-actor in all vaudeville, will visit the new Sun-Telegraph Want Ad corner, Fifth avenue at Market street, tomorrow at noon. Accompanied by his owners, Snoozer, playing this week at the Aldine Theater, will do whatever he is told. His intelligence is rated as comparable with that of a 10-year-old child.

"SIR WALTER" ROBBER GETS GIRL'S CASH

Ellen VanderVoort, 17-year-old Allegheny High School student, last night was one of two victims of a North Side robber, who spoke like a Jesse James but behaved as a Sir Walter Raleigh. Mrs. Marie Davis, 32, of 202 East North avenue, rear, was the other who faced his gun.

Miss VanderVoort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl VanderVoort, 949 North Lincoln avenue, returning from a practice with the city high school orchestra, had run her automobile into the garage, turned out the lights and was about to shut the doors when the two-toned bandit appeared.

"Not a word or I'll blow out your brains," was his command. As he took her purse he continued his threats, but after extracting 75 cents, all the money she possessed, he handed the pocketbook back, with her driver's card and vanity case. With that he politely doffed his cap and disappeared.

Mrs. Davis was accosted in the yard of her home, but her screams sent the man fleeing. Three men chased him, but he escaped. He got nothing from Mrs. Davis.

SCHOOLS ASK PAY FOR VOTE PLACES

Unless the County Commissioners pay the Board of Public Education $14,616 for use of public school buildings as polling places, the school board in the future will deny the commissioners use of the buildings. This was the ultimatum hurled at the commissioners by Attorney J. Rodgers McCreery, solicitor for the Board of Public Education.

The solicitor informed the commissioners that the county owed the Board of Education the money for use of 175 schools during primary and general elections for the last two years. The bill includes light, heat, storing of election booths and other paraphernalia, erection of booths and janitor service.

"If the amount is not paid," Attorney McCreery said, "the Board of Education will feel inclined to take it upon itself to refuse the use of the schools as voting places in the future."

Attorney McCreery, after making this remark, explained that the decision of the school board was not being contemplated as a threat to force the commissioners to pay the bill.

The attorney also deplored the conduct at polling places in the schools.

"During the last election considerable drinking, shooting and fighting took place," he said. "The conduct was very disturbing and annoying and set a bad example for the school children."

PROWLER TERRORIZES WASHINGTON, PA.

QUAKE AS GIRL'S MURDER IS RECALLED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 11.—Residents, still shocked over the unsolved murder of Thelma Young, were in a nervous state throughout the night as the entire police department searched for a strange Negro prowler who entered three homes in rapid succession.

The Negro left each home empty handed, on two occasions being scared away. At the rooming house of Mrs. Mary Blaney, he jumped into her path from behind a doorway. She fainted and he departed.

The prowler calmly walked from the home of Mrs. Anna Richardson when a nurse, attendant to Mrs. Richardson, asked him what he wanted.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fetherlin saw him run from their home as she returned from a visit.

KELLY, ESTEP MAY FACE CONTEST

At least two Congressmen from Allegheny county may face opposition when they seek re-nomination at the primaries April 24.

One is Harry A. Estep, serving his first term from the Thirty-fifth district. James M. Magee, who was ousted by Estep in the last congressional primaries, stated today that his decision to run again is "irrevocable." Maj. Robert M. Ewing, although he has frowned upon the thought, publicly at least, also is mentioned as a possible candidate in that district.

Another Congressman against whom opposition may appear is Clyde Kelly in the Thirty-third district. Dr. J. B. Richey, head of the public schools of McKeesport, is mentioned as a possible aspirant for the nomination against Kelly, who is serving his seventh term. Burgess J. R. Langley of Wilkinsburg also has been mentioned as a possible candidate.

There are occasional reports that Congressman Guy E. Campbell, Thirty-sixth district, may not seek re-election. If he does not seek another term, there will be an open field in the district. It is said that friends of State Senator Frank J. Harris would like him to seek the place if Campbell does not run, but that Harris is inclined to stay in his present post.

AUDIT RECORDS COST $3,200

It cost the county about $3,200 for stenographer service for former County Controller Charles C. McGovern's public audit of the fiscal affairs of the county. Harry Bastow, shorthand reporter, who took the testimony at the audit hearings, presented another bill for $697.50. According to the commissioners, the total amount, including the bills presented, amounted to $3,200.

The bills were not recommended for payment at the meeting late yesterday. The commissioners referred the account to the county statistician for a check up.

port setting forth the proceedings of the committee to the present time.

"The committee first summoned William R. Hearst, owner and publisher of the group of newspapers which printed facsimilies and translations of documents purporting to show that representatives of the Mexican government had paid large sums of money to four United States Senators, for the purpose of influencing their attitude toward Mexican-American affairs. Mr. Hearst laid before the committee 71 documents, some, but not all, of which had been published in his newspapers. He testified that he had no evidence, and knew of none, which would tend to show that any Senator had received any such payments, and he testified that he personally did not believe that any Senator had received any. He admitted that no Senator mentioned in the documents had been given any opportunity to see the documents before publication or to deny the implied accusations contained in them. He stated that he had instructed his representatives to verify the genuineness of the documents as far as possible.

"Each of the Senators in question took the stand and denied under oath that he had been paid or promised or offered any sum of money whatever by any person for or in behalf of the government of Mexico.

"The committee then heard a considerable number of witnesses, including one Avila, who claimed to have bought these documents from clerks in different Mexican government offices, and various representatives of the Hearst newspapers. The testimony of these witnesses is printed and available for the use of the Senate.

"The committee submitted the documents to two impartial handwriting experts whose services were made available to the committee by the Treasury and Navy departments. Both of these experts reported with positiveness that the documents purporting to be signed by President Calles, 55 in number, and those purporting to be signed by L. Monte de Oca, secretary of the Mexican treasury, three in number are plain forgeries. The Hearst representatives then asked permission to submit the documents to three handwriting experts who studied the documents thoroughly; they were unanimous in pronouncing these signatures to be forgeries. Photographs showing these signatures compared with genuine signatures will be found at the conclusion of the printed testimony.

"The committee then submitted to the code and cipher experts of the Navy department the seven alleged code messages and their pretended translations, including among the documents submitted by Mr. Hearst. After exhaustive study these experts reported that the code messages were obvious 'fakes;' that the code words were meaningless reiterations of letters, chiefly eight letters found in one corner of the typewriter keyboard.

"The committee subjected the documents themselves to a careful study to determine whether there is any significant coincidence in the many mistakes of grammar, spelling and punctuation to be found in them. A table showing some of these will be found at the conclusion of the report of the last hearing. The committee had the benefit of the assistance of a large number of eminent scholars of the Spanish language, most of them of American birth and allegiance, whom the committee consulted separately from one another. The only errors listed in this table are those which all of these authorities pronounce unusual, and unlikely to occur in the writings of several different stenographers, in different offices and different cities. The committee believes it to be incredible for example that so many different stenographers, in seven different offices in Mexico and New York, should all abbreviate usted (you) as 'ud'—an error equivalent to the use of 'Mr.' as the abbreviation of the English word 'mister.'

"Representatives of all telegraph and cable companies handling business between Mexico City and New York all testified that they could find no record whatever of the transmittal of the pretended telegrams between those cities, nor any record of the telegraphic transfers of money mentioned in several of the documents.

"The committee did not feel justified in taking the time or incurring the expense of securing witnesses as to various ledger charges, appearing on the same ledger sheet as that which showed these supposed payments to Senators, although the committee was advised by the Buick Motor Company that no sale such as shown on the ledger sheet was ever made, nor any such payment made to that company. Similarly the account books showing the Mexican consul general's bank accounts in New York were examined in behalf of the committee without disclosure of any confirmatory evidence of the charges in the Hearst documents, but the falsity of the charges and of the documents was already so clearly proven that the committee did not feel justified in summoning these account books or the various witnesses necessary to prove them. Similarly, evidence seemed to be available to show that paper bearing the water marks found in the Hearst documents had never been sold to the Mexican government, but this meant the summoning of many paper dealers from distant cities, and did not seem to be justified under the circumstances.

COMMITTEE FINDING

"The committee is unanimous in finding:

"1—There is not a scintilla of evidence that any United States Senator had accepted, or was promised, or was offered, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing, by an officer or representative of the government of Mexico.

"2—The pretended evidence, that $1,215,000 was withdrawn from the Mexican treasury and sent to the Mexican consul general in New York City to be paid to United States Senators is not genuine, but is spurious and fraudulent, and in so far as it purports to be signed by the President of Mexico or the Secretary of the Treasury of Mexico it is forged.

"The committee has thus far been unable to determine to its satisfaction the identity of the manufacturers of these spurious documents, and has no witnesses now under subpena from which such information is likely to be obtained; but it appears to be advisable that the committee shall not yet be finally discharged. Later the committee will render a supplemental and final report which, with the present report, will constitute a completed survey of the whole field of investigation that the committee shall then have covered."

MUSICAL-EARED THIEF INCLUDES RADIO IN LOOT

The radio industry was officially cognized by an ancient profession early today.

A burglar stole, among other things, a $200 set from the home of John Heimbuecker, 3714½ Evergreen road, North Side.

ALDERMAN SUES FOR PAPERS

Judge James B. Drew, in Common Pleas Court, made an order granting an alternative writ of mandamus directed against A. M. Maloney, former alderman of the First Ward, Pittsburgh, to show cause why he should not turn over to John Vogt, prothonotary, all the filed dockets which were in his possession, as alderman and ex-officio justice of the peace of the First Ward, at the end of his tenure of office and all the unfiled dockets to Thomas A. Flannigan, his successor in office.

The order was made following a petition presented in behalf of Alderman Flannigan by Attorney Louis Little. In the petition, Flannigan recites that an act of the Legislature requires an outgoing alderman or justice of the peace to turn over to the prothonotary all his filed dockets and his unfiled dockets to his successor in office. The court fixed January 17, next, as the date of a hearing in the case.

"I paid a big price for that sore throat"

"Voice husky, throat raw, that night I wasn't 50% effective. And next day—well, I had to cancel a week's engagements. Now, I always carry a bottle of Formamint tablets with me. Unlike gargles, Formamint enables you to treat sore throat continuously. Get a bottle now. See your physician for examination, too. To treat sore throat, one Formamint tablet every hour; as a preventive, one every two hours. All druggists.

Her Last Party!

NEW! LISTERINE SHAVING CREAM
If you don't say this wonderful new cream gives you the coolest shave you ever had you will be one of the few exceptions.

Never Neglect Sore Throat

She laughed at her mother. "It's only a sore throat," she said, and went to the party. But there was a long wait for a taxi when the party was over. The night was chill. The next day she felt wretched. Still she did nothing about it. "Just a cold," she repeated—In ten days she was critically ill—her last party that winter.

When will people begin to realize the folly of neglecting a cold or sore throat?

Neglected, these apparently trivial ailments may lead shortly to serious illness or even death.

At the first suspicion of trouble, go to bed, eat wisely, and gargle systematically with Listerine, the safe antiseptic, used full strength. If immediate improvement is not shown, consult your physician.

In the past fifty years, however, Listerine has checked thousands and thousands of cold weather complaints before they had a chance to become serious. This is due to its antiseptic action. The instant it enters the mouth it attacks the disease-producing bacteria that develops there.

Your chance of escaping colds or dangerous "flu" and pneumonia will be considerably bettered by the systematic every day use of this pleasant antiseptic. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U.S.A.

VOTE MACHINE FRIENDS TOLD TO UNITE

Public opinion in Pennsylvania has been aroused in favor of voting machines, declared State Senator Frank J. Harris in an address before the Lions' Club of Clairton last night; but, he said, it must be crystallized, so that it will register affirmatively at the November election, when the citizens will pass on a constitutional amendment, sponsored by him, which authorizes the use of the devices. Senator Harris called on trade, civic, social and welfare organizations to carry on a campaign of education that the voters may be enabled to form an intelligent opinion of the amendment.

Mrs. Lula Mosby demonstrated a voting machine and gave a talk on its operations before the South Side Board of Trade last night.

"Foremost among the admirable features of the machine," she said, "is that it automatically registers and counts each vote cast, and at the close of an election the total for each amendment and candidate is available; so all the election officials have to do is to open the rear compartment and transcribe on the return sheet the entire vote cast. This is a decided improvement over the paper ballot system, as it gives the newspapers the returns an hour after the polls close and also prevents any tampering with the final count."

Mrs. Mosby will go to Washington, Pa., tomorrow to conduct a campaign for voting machines. D. Glenn Moore, a member of the Legislature, will be sponsor for the campaign in Washington county.

FREED IN SON'S SLAYING

William Biseck, saloonkeeper of 2921 Penn avenue, formerly of Johnstown, was acquitted after 19 hours' deliberation by a jury in Criminal Court today before Visiting Judge W. A. McConnel. Biseck was tried on a charge of murder for the shooting of his son, William F. Biseck, Jr., 24, in the saloon July 13, after a quarrel during which the defendant was atacked by his son and struck by a blackjack, the shot being fired accidentally in a struggle for the revolver.

Today

urgent appeal sent broadcast throughout the industrial populations of Belgium, demanding for skilled workers an annual wage of $428 a year.

CONSIDER that, and then consider this: A generous man left his fortune to build in New York City comfortable apartments to be rented most reasonably to under-paid workers with families. The philanthropist stipulated that his apartments should be rented to workers getting not more than $35 a week. His executors have been trying, vainly, to find tenants to fill the apartments. Workers with families getting as little as $35 a week seem to be scarce, in New York.

BELGIAN workers, skilled and of the clerical class are striving for $428 a year, and a United States philanthropist hunts in vain for American workers getting as little as $1,200 a year.

THE moral of that is plain, protect American workers from competition with underpaid foreign labor, and American manufacturers from competition with foreign manufacturers that can hire such cheap labor and MAKE IT ILLEGAL FOR THIS COUNTRY TO BUY CHEAP SUPPLIES, OF ANY KIND, IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES, PRODUCED BY CHEAP FOREIGN LABOR.

PROFESSOR ROSS of Wisconsin University is worried about over-population of the earth. Let married people have four children to a family, let the children marry and do likewise, and population doubles every 20 years. At that rate, this country, in 40 years, could have 460,000,000 people, more than China, and in 100 years, our population would be 3,840,000,000, more than twice the earth's present population.

FIVE thousand and eight hundred French people known to have settled in Canada in 1680, now number 3,000,000. It all sounds frightening, but it is not. Henry George remarked that if a dog's tail grew throughout its life as it does in puppyhood, dogs would have tails 40 feet long. Providence prevents that, and it will take care of our population.

TEXAS, building last year more miles of railroad than any other state in the union, still has 50,000 square miles with no railroads. Those 50,000 square miles, under intensive cultivation, would easily feed 20,000,000 people.

And as human beings become civilized, they will marry later, regulate their families, and population will be balanced, without the aid of famine, war or plague.

"The Lord sees to it that trees do not grow into the heavens," elephants do not have as many children as mice have, and for the present, the bigger the human family, the better.

AUTHORIZE SEWAGE PLANT AT AIR FIELD

Improvements are continuing at Rodgers Aviation Field, O'Hara township, although steps are under way to abandon the field for a larger and more suitable one. The County Commissioners awarded an $841 contract to Terry Ferrone for a sewage disposal plant. The expense is to be shared by the city and county.

CHURCH DRIVE NETS 1,300 MEMBERS

More than 1,300 new church members was the total of the first day of the county-wide visitation evangelism campaign, now in progress, and which will conclude Friday night, after a seven-day drive which began Sunday. The actual number of churches that started with the launching of the drive was 228 and representing a total membership of 104,000.

A get-together rally of the 10,000 workers will be held in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, on Friday night after the drive has been finished.

In every group center of the county at 6 o'clock tonight a campaign dinner will be held and a short address will be made by the district leader, with the local chairman presiding. Immediately after the dinner, the workers will start out on the fourth night of the drive. Dr. A. Earl Kernahan is general director; Dr. R. F. Galbreath, chairman of the evangelism commission; the Rev. John E. Simpson, field director, and the Rev. Harold C. Kistler, assistant field director.

COUNTY APPROVES CHANGE IN ROAD NAME

The county commissioners Tuesday approved the changing of the name of the Castle Shannon road to Castle Shannon boulevard. The road extends from Castle Shannon to Mt. Lebanon township.

End It by This New and Marvelous Discovery

No matter how longstanding your case may be nor what other remedies you have tried without success, here's one that is designed to afford you relief you never dreamed was possible.

Vois Anti-Rheumin, discovered during the war and perfected by German scientists to combat trench rheumatism, has come to America. Everywhere sufferers of rheumatism, arthritis, lumbago and gout are praising its wonder results.

Many would pay a thousand dollars to rid themselves of those torturous rheumatic pains, yet Vois Anti-Rheumin costs but $2.50 a box. Your druggist knows its marvelous powers and he will gladly refund your money after you have tried one box if you feel dissatisfied in any way.

There's no excuse for you to suffer another day. Go to your druggist now. Get Vois Anti-Rheumin and you'll praise the day you did it.

More Attractive After She Gained Needed Weight

Is your face drawn and pinched? Your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Does your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded slimness of youth?

All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But worst of all, these may actually be the symptoms of simple anaemia—that dread ailment so often suffered by women.

There's nothing so good as McCoy's Tablets to put on firm flesh, round out face and figure and help build rich, red blood.

So if you need a few pounds of flesh to round out the hollows, if you want to get back old-time energy and health, get a box of McCoy's Tablets today. Just a short treatment will make you look and feel like a new person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Mack Sennett Again to Star Sallie Eilers' "Camera Eyes" In Personally Directed Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.

THE exclusive "something" that is not defined by Elinor Glyn's "it," but is best described by Mack Sennett as the "camera eyes," belongs to Sallie Eilers. Mr. Sennett, the man who brought Gloria Swanson from the ranks of the unknown and who gave Charlie Chaplin his first chance, has bestowed this distinction on little Miss Eilers. Moreover, he is about to personally direct her in "Bad News," his second feature.

The man who made bathing beauties with screen pulchritude, has made only one other feature picture. This one, "The Goodbye Kiss," also starring Miss Eilers, Mr. Sennett believes is the best picture that he has ever made. This is a bold statement, eh, what? If it's that good, it should rank with the best. Sennett has few equals once he gets into his stride. And from all he says, "The Goodbye Kiss" is his stride.

Little Miss Eilers, whose charm is undeniable, will have Johnny Burke, vaudeville favorite, as her featured lead. Matty Kemp also plays an important part. The comedy—of course, it is a comedy—is the story of a young rookie in an army camp. The story was authored by Carl Harbaugh.

We don't say, of course, that Carl Laemmle had anything to do with selecting Alice Day to play the lead in "Phyllis of the Follies." Alice has gotten other jobs before and outside of Universal company. But there's no denying that he considers her one of the best of the younger actresses; also that she is one of his favorites. At least, they are seen often enough together to prompt me to make this somewhat rash statement. Miss Day will be in good company, too. Matt Moore plays opposite her. We haven't heard from Matt for many a day, have we. Others in the cast are Lilyan Tashman and Edmund Burns. Ernst Laemmle will direct. All-star casts always sound so ominous and yet I think we can put this one down as an all-star cast, considering the stellar talent employed.

Vaudeville is beckoning Priscilla Dean to New York. She left on Monday to reach the big city in time to open at the Palace. New York always does very well by our movie stars when they do a two-a-day and Priscilla has learned that there is a welcome on the mat for her whenever she chooses to face the footlights. She will be gone some weeks—that is, if things go the way her friends hope and expect.

Mirth and Magic In Future Bills

The attraction in the Nixon next week, opening Monday evening, January 16, will be the new musical comedy, "One Sunny Day," with Frank McIntyre, Lynne Overman, Jeanette MacDonald, Billy B. Van, Carl Randall, Rosalie Claire, Audrey Maple and a company of 100. The seat sale in the box office will begin Thursday.

Charles "Chic" Sales, is star of "Gay Paree," which comes to the Alvin next Monday for a week's stay. Before becoming an actor Sales earned his living as a journeyman machinist in the Big Four shops in Urbana, Ill. He still carries a union card.

The sale of seats for the engagement of Thurston, the magician, in the Pitt for the week, opening next Monday night, will begin Thursday morning. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

Six sons and daughters of Eddie Foy will appear in their own skit in the Davis next week, as headliners in the Keith-Albee vaudeville. They are billed as the Younger Foys—Chips of the Old Block.

Show to Benefit Women And Children

In the interest of the children and wives of the striking miners of Allegheny county, the Theater Managers' Association of Pittsburgh is planning a big show to be presented at the Davis Theater, Thursday, January 19, at 11:30 p. m.

Artists from all theaters in the Theater Managers' Association will volunteer their services in this worthy cause. The destitute condition of these women and children is known to the country at large and the response from stage people in every line was unanimous when they were approached.

All seats are reserved. They are on sale today in the box office of the Davis. There is one price all over the house $1 per seat, and the public is advised to buy early.

New Lead

BLANCHE WILCOX

Miss Wilcox replaces Pearl Hazelton, who has retired as leading woman after a year and a half with the East End Theater stock players. She again plays opposite Ray Rawlings, with whom she was associated for a season elsewhere. Miss Wilcox came here from Boston, where she was in stock.

FLOTILLA CLUB WILL REOPEN MONDAY NIGHT

The management of the Flotilla Club has announced that the club will re-open Monday night. The Flotilla Club revue will appear in a completely changed program. In addition, an act from New York will be offered as an added attraction. Etzi Covato and his orchestra will play.

PIANISTS TO APPEAR IN JOINT RECITAL HERE

Josef Lhevinne and his wife, Rosina Lhevinne, will present a joint piano recital in the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association tomorrow evening.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debuts, Teas, Balls Lose Glamor When Compared With Church Wedding

"COMING-OUT" teas are important, to be sure; balls are exciting, especially if one is young; and luncheons and teas and theater parties are jolly, but there is no social event, to my mind, half so impressive and lovely as a wedding, particularly if it is a dignified church ceremony.

And a church ceremony Hallie Virginia Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Schuyler Nicholson, of Shady avenue, is going to have when she marries Frederick Rufus Crawford, son of the Rufus Choate Crawfords, of Albemarle street, on January 25.

The wedding will take place in the Sixth Presbyterian Church that afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, and the Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth, pastor of the church, will be the officiant. Following the wedding there will be a reception in the University Club.

There will be quite a large wedding party, the bride having three sisters and her future sister-in-law among her attendants. Mrs. John F. Kizer, the former Margaret Hill, of Towanda, and Mrs. Charles Bedell Monro, the former Marjory Hill, both sisters, of course, of the bride, will be matrons of honor, and Jean Brown Scott, of Philadelphia, is to be maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Janet Schuyler Nicholson, sister of the bride; Mrs. Charles Henry Altmiller, of Hazleton, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., the former Clarissa Wainwright, a very young matron.

James Haller Hardie will be best man. Mr. Crawford has asked Charles Henry Altmiller, of Hazleton; Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., Charles Bedell Monro, John F. Kizer, of Towanda; George E. W. Cornelius, of Beaver; William Todd, Jr., and Rozier James Beech, of Washington, D. C., to be ushers.

Twelve tables of bridge are in play at the bridge tea Mrs. Frank R. Dravo, of East Drive, Sewickley, is giving this afternoon in her home in honor of Harriet Nourse Ramsburg, the debutante daughter of the Charles D. Ramsburgs, of Sewickley. Spring flowers are used in decorating the home. The guests are Harriet's sister debbies and a few members of the younger married set. Now that the debutante season is just about at an end, the buds will have one last opportunity today "to talk things over" before leaving for the South, Europe or California.

TO LEAD GRAND MARCH

Miss Mary Elizabeth Pitcairn, of Wilson College, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Pitcairn, with James W. Sloan, of the Theta Kappa Nu fraternity, will lead the grand march at the annual intrafraternity ball of the University of Pittsburgh, to be held January 10, in the Hotel Schenley.

Then Mr. Wickersham's sister, Lillian, who is now Lady Hadfield, was a close friend of Rebecca Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Craig, who later became Mrs. Diller.

February 21 is the date chosen by Miss Inez Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Fitzgerald, for her marriage to Dr. Paul Howard Schiffhauer, son of Dr. J. H. Schiffhauer, of Fairmount avenue. Presiding officers have used all sorts of gavels, but usually small. No one has used a bigger gavel than James F. Malone, new president of City Council. The massive one shown in the picture was presented to him by the Royal Order of Poison Shooters, a group with which he eats his luncheon daily.

BOGGS & BUHL

SPECIAL STAFF FOR AUDIT IS REQUESTED

County Controller Robert G. Woodside will go before the County Salary Board early next week and request the board to grant him permission to engage a staff of independent auditors so that a general audit of the fiscal affairs of the county could be started as soon as possible.

Tuesday County Commissioners passed a resolution indorsing a general county audit. This action was taken after Controller Woodside, on a petition to court, was refused aid to conduct the audit. The court maintained it had no jurisdiction in ordering such an accounting.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board, presented the resolution. He said that it was imperative that the true financial condition of the county should be determined before the County Controller filed his annual report for 1927.

IN ACCORD ON AUDIT

"The County Commissioners are in accord with the Controller's request for a general audit of county affairs," Commissioner Armstrong said. "We will give him every assistance in the way of additional help in securing necessary data to make a complete audit." Commissioner E. V. Babcock concurred with Commissioner Armstrong. Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was not present at the commissioners' meeting yesterday, but he has expressed himself on several occasions as favoring a general audit of the county.

Controller Woodside today would not divulge how many extra auditors he would request. Neither would he estimate how much the audit would cost. "The commissioners will stand back of me and as they have passed a resolution assuring me of their co-operation, I will engage as many auditors as necessary," the Controller said. The auditors will be carried on an extra payroll in the Controller's office, Woodside said.

Thrills and Fun of a Barnstorming Aviator

Stunt Flying for a Price to Amuse Southern Whites—Need of Proper Airports Apparent

"Lindy's" first "crack-up" came in Mississippi, as told in yesterdays installment of "We." Little damage was done. Repairs soon were made. And the cost of that slight accident was quickly covered by receipts from "natives" eager, after one had dared fate in a flight, to go aloft. But the first passenger ever carried by Lindbergh had been taken up the day before, an experience that made an exciting story.

First Attempt to Loop the Loop

CHAPTER IV.

THAT afternoon a group of whites chipped in fifty cents apiece to give one of the Negroes a hop, provided, as they put it, I would do a few "flip flops" with him. The Negro decided upon was perfectly willing and confident up to the time when he was instructed to get in; even then he gamely climbed into the cockpit, assuring all of his clan that he would wave his red bandanna handkerchief over the side of the cockpit during the entire flight in order to show them that he was still unafraid.

After reaching the corner of the field I instructed him, as I had the previous passengers, to hold the throttle back while I was lifting the tail around. When I climbed back in my cockpit I told him to let go and opened the throttle to take off. We had gone about fifty yards when it suddenly occurred to him the ship was moving and that the handle he was to hold on to was not where it should be.

He had apparently forgotten everything but that throttle, and with a death grip he hauled it back to the closed position. We had not gone far enough to prevent stopping before reaching the other end of the field and the only loss was the time required to taxi over the rough ground to our starting point. Before taking off the next time, however, I gave very explicit instructions regarding the throttle.

A Scared Passenger

I had promised to give this Negro a stunt ride, yet I had never had any instruction in acrobatics. I had, however, been in a plane with Bahl during two loops and one tailspin. I had also been carefully instructed in the art of looping by Reese, who, forgetting that I was not flying a Hisso standard with twice the power of my Jenny, advised me that it was not necessary to dive excessively before a loop but rather to fly along with the motor full on until the plane gathered speed, then to start the loop from a level flying position.

I climbed up to 3,000 feet and started in to fulfill my agreement by doing a few air-splashes, steep spirals and dives. With the first deviation from straight flight my passenger had his head down on the floor of the cockpit but continued to wave the red handkerchief with one hand while he was holding on to everything available with the other, although he was held in securely with the safety belt.

"Loop" That Failed

Finally, remembering my ground instructions, I leveled the plane off and with wide open motor waited a few moments to pick up maximum speed, then, slowly pulling back on the stick I began to loop. When I had gotten one-fourth of the way around the ship was trembling in a nearly stalled position; still, the Curtiss motor was doing its best and it was not until the nose was pointing directly skyward at a 90 degree angle that the final inertia was lost and for an instant we hung motionless in the perfect position for a whipstall. I kicked full right rudder immediately to throw the plane over on its side, but it was too late, the controls had no effect.

The Negro meanwhile decided that the "flipflops" were over and poked his head over the side of the cockpit looking for mother earth. At that instant we whipped. The ship gathered speed as it slid backwards toward the ground, the air caught the tail surfaces, jerked them around past the heavier nose and we were in a vertical dive; again in full control, but with no red handkerchief waving over the cockpit. I tried another loop in the same manner, but just before reaching the stalling point in the next one I kicked the ship over on one wing and evaded a whipstall. After the second failure I decided that there must be something wrong with my method of looping and gave up any further attempt for that afternoon. But it was not until we were almost touching the ground that the bandanna again appeared above the cowling.

I remained in Maben for two weeks, carrying over 60 passengers in all, or about $300 worth. People flocked in from all over the surrounding country, some traveling for 15 miles in oxcarts just to see the plane fly.

One old Negro woman came up and asked—

"Boss! How much you all charge foah take me up to heaben and leave me dah?"

Need of Airports Seen

I could have carried many more passengers, but it rained nearly every day and each flight rutted the field badly. When I landed it was necessary to pass over a soft spot between two hillsides, and before taking off I had to taxi back over this soft place on the way to the far corner of the field. During the last few days several men were required on each wing to push the plane through the mud to the hillside beyond. Another difficulty was that the old black wartime rubber shock absorber card had deteriorated to such an extent that I replaced it with hemp rope and taxi-ing over the harder parts of the field was a very rough procedure, especially since the ground had been plowed in years gone by and allowed to grow sod without being harrowed.

I made several attempts to find another suitable field nearby but there was none from which I could safely operate.

Landing fields are of primary importance to safety in aviation. It is not a question of how small a field a plane can operate from, but rather of how large a field is necessary to make that operation safe.

Large and well equipped airports situated close to cities will go far towards developing commercial airlines and keeping the United States at the top in aeronautical activity.

The cities that forsee the future of air transportation and provide suitable airports will find themselves the center of airlines radiating in every direction.

When an airline is organized, one of the primary considerations is the condition and location of the various landing fields where terminals are contemplated. If the airport is small and in poor condition, or if a passenger must of necessity spend nearly as much time in traveling from the business district out to the field as it will require for him to fly from the field to his destination, then it is very probable that some other city will be selected for the stopping point.

The condition of the field together with the fact that after a heavy rain it was often necessary to carry gasoline in five gallon cans a mile and a half over the railroad tracks by hand forced me to leave Maben and a large number of would-be passengers behind, and early one morning I took off for the last time and again headed for Texas.

U. S. PAYS—ONLY SIX MONTHS LATE

Never again will attaches of the United States District Court say "there ain't no Santa Claus." The yule saint yesterday made a belated visit to the Federal Building and distributed checks to the judges, bailiffs and court crier for amounts of salaries owed them for the months of March, April, May and June of last year.

The back pay had been held up because of the United States Senate filibustering on the closing days of the Sixty-ninth Congress, led by Senator David A. Reed, which was responsible for the failure to pass the second deficiency bill that would have provided an appropriation for full operation of the federal courts. The checks were handed out by United States Marshal J. C. McGregor.

The court crier, Charles C. Lacher, received salary for the entire four months, but the bailiffs for but one month as they had been laid off when the funds got low. During the shortage of funds, the judges received their salaries regularly, except the increase granted when their salaries were increased from $7,500 to $10,000 a year.

TURNS POLICE ON "TITLED TURK"

By International News Service.

NEY YORK, Jan. 11.—Since Sebastian S. Kresge, the 5 and 10-cent store magnate, has become estranged from his wife, the former Doris Mercer, of Pittsburgh, a young and handsome but unwelcome wooer has laid siege to her affections through a series of love notes, gifts and telephone calls.

Greatly annoyed by the attentions of the love-sick swain, said to be a scion of a titled Turkish family, Mrs. Kresge enlisted the aid of police and a detective agency in a search for the persistent youth but the hunt so far has been unsuccessful, it was learned today.

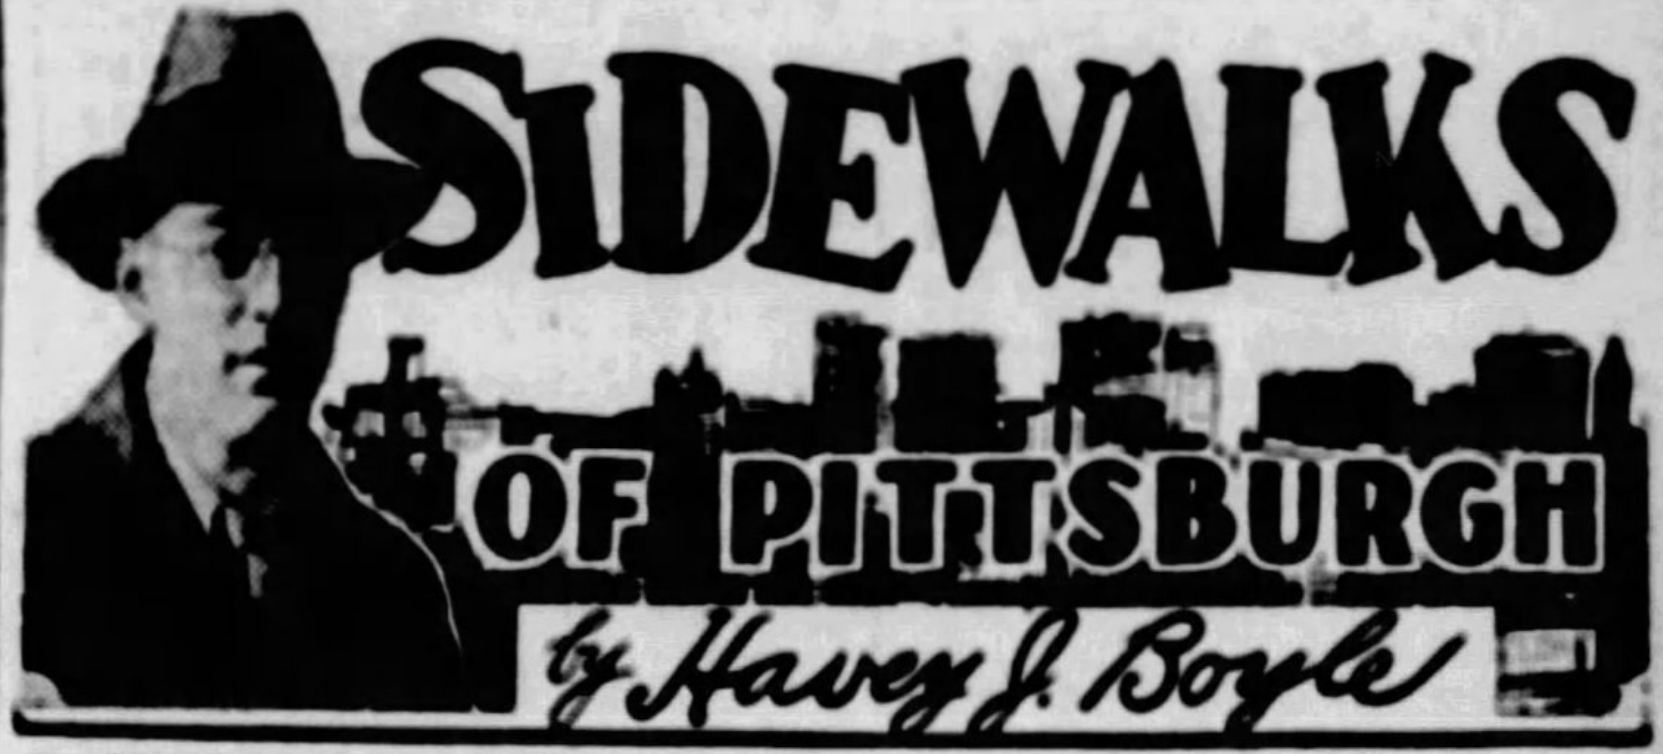
In several notes the young man vowed his undying love. And in one he declared that he would like to "meet up" with the millionaire chain store owner.

A silk umbrella and a five-pound box of Oriental candy were two of the gifts her mysterious admirer mailed to Mrs. Kresge.

The one-sided romance began shortly before Christmas when Mrs. Kresge was called by telephone by a stranger who assured her of his admiration and sympathy over her divorce troubles. His Christmas present to her was a green silk parasol.

"My dear girl and the only girl in the world I care for" read one note. "I wish I could see you somewhere but if you feel it is dangerous, better don't.

"This morning I couldn't get up to go to work. I wish I knew your husband's address. Believe me I feel very sad in these days. I lost my control thinking always of you."



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by Havey J. Boyle

LETTERS from readers are coming in with consistent regularity. This is very encouraging. If we all put our shoulder to the wheel we may be able to make something of this department. When we used to write Sport Lens there was a fine spirit of co-operation among the readers. Even many who seldom wrote to the newspapers complaining about high taxes, the traffic indignities, or what they thought about capital punishment would take the bother to write in to plead some special case. As a result there was always plenty of material on hand. The letters would allow us to lay off saying: "It is just as Jack Ryder in the Cincinnati Enquirer reports," after which whatever was on Jack's chest at the moment would be clipped and pasted up.

Only one fault can be found with the letters coming in now. They are all of a congratulatory nature. This is not so good. Readers tire quite quickly of messages of congratulations. What we must do is to put information in these letters—what you see on the streets, the stories you hear and reminiscenses of an interesting character.

To conclude the sermon, the one-armed brother will now pass the plate and in this connection we may as well say now that last Sunday there were a great many pennies in the collection. And to further recall Mr. Chic Sale: "The baptismal hour next Sunday will be at 2 o'clock—remember Mrs. Jones you were late last year."

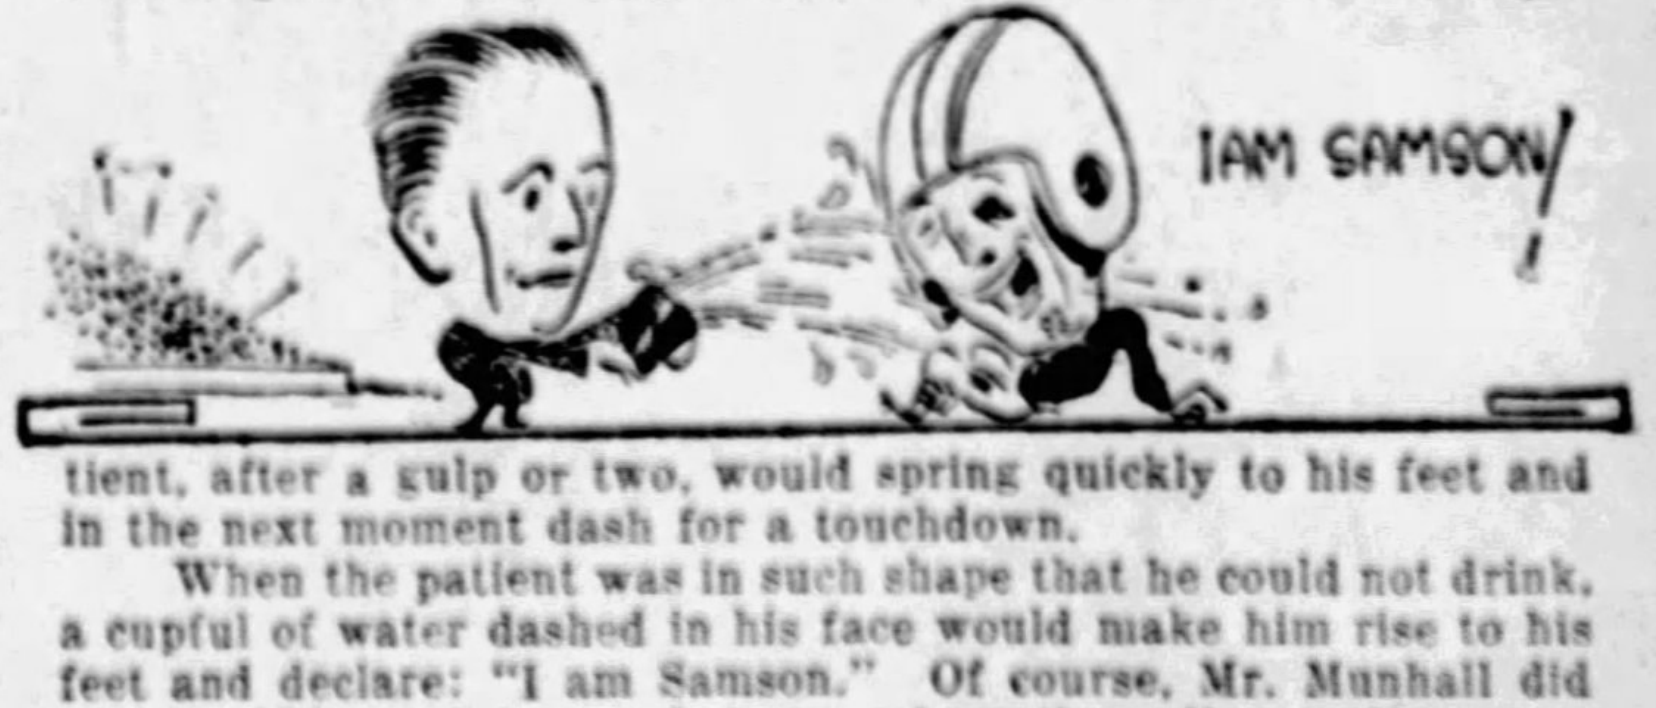
FROM the Pittsburgh Athletic Association T. A. C. asks that something here be said about Bert Munhall, trainer of Carnegie Tech athletes. Mr. Munhall got his start at J. & L. (Jones & Laughlin). He comes of that class of men who have brought to the attention of the world the powers of water. Much is said from time to time about the curative and healing powers of the waters of Carlsbad and watering places at the various hot springs of this country, but it was Mr. Munhall and his kind who established the great powers concealed in the product of the pumping station at Aspinwall and the magic daily unfolded by the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

OUCH!
TRY THE ASPINWALL PUMPING STATION FOR THAT LUMBAGO!

Let a football player get a wrenched ankle, a broken leg, or a stiff neck during a game and always one saw a large bucket of Pittsburgh's miracle water carried onto the field where the patient, after a gulp or two, would spring quickly to his feet and in the next moment dash for a touchdown.



When the patient was in such shape that he could not drink, a cupful of water dashed in his face would make him rise to his feet and declare: "I am Samson." Of course, Mr. Munhall did some rubbing, or gave what we osteopaths call an adjustment in severe cases, but generally the discovery by the trainers a long time ago that water was good for nearly everything was responsible for most of their quick cures.

Incidentally, Mr. Munhall is recuperating now from an illness which is somehow reminiscent of the girl who took the first prize for being the healthiest girl in the world, but who, unfortunately due to a very bad cold, could not appear at the exercises at which she was to be crowned "Miss Health."

JAMES J. DAVIS, secretary of labor, and one of the leading Welshmen of the world, has strong Pittsburgh connections coming from a long residence here. His father's home is in Sharon, Pa. There is a story which portrays the faith James J. Davis' father had in his sons. When Jim Davis went home once early in his career, after having been elected city clerk in a small town in Indiana, his father was pleased as was an uncle visiting at the Davis home. "Jimmy," said the uncle, "you'll be president some day." "No," immediately said the secretary's father, "Jimmy can't be president, but Billy can."

It developed that Billy, a brother, was born in this country, but that James J. Davis was ineligible because he was born across the water. "Jimmy can't but Billy can," shows what the elder Davis thought of his boys.

She asks him to drive her home. On the way she learns that he is cab-driving to raise money to finance a new kind of piston ring he has invented. Pat tells her that he is selling the cab to raise money for the piston ring, and she miserably wonders how she'll see him after that. Staley tells her the age-difference between them doesn't matter and tenderly kisses her. Lily realizes that she hates his love-making. Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement just as Lily's made up her mind to tell Staley that she doesn't want to marry him, and she feels like a mouse in a trap—helpless. The Lexingtons get a chauffeur, who turns out to be Pat. Lily confesses to her mother she loves him and leaves home. Mrs. Lexington decides to take matters into her own hands to get rid of Pat. Pat leaves, and to Mrs. Lexington's sorrow, Lily leaves with him. Pat and Lily are married, and Sue Cain is bridesmaid. After the wedding they go to Pat's mother's home. On Sunday Lily stays in bed until noon. Florence, Pat's sister, says that Pat is at the Jetterson's house. Although it is noon she stays in bed waiting for Pat to come home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THEN she turned to Sadye Jetterson with a sunny smile. "I hope you understood why I didn't come here the other night. I was awfully tired and upset," she went on, with all of the sweetness that was in her. "I was afraid you were hurt when you didn't come to our wedding. Pat said you and your husband would stand up with us, but I wanted my chum, Sue Cain, because she was to have been my maid of honor if I'd married another man in June."

She laughed, and Sadye Jetterson laughed with her.

"Yes, I read about it in the paper this morning," she said, good-naturedly. "It was funny, wasn't it? And the funniest part of it was that we all thought Pat was going to marry another girl! A friend of mine——"

As she spoke the door at the end of the hall opened once more, and a girl came down the hall towards them—a small girl with smooth, brown hair brushed flat to her head and large, placid blue eyes; the girl that Lily had seen standing beside Pat's cab that long-ago day in Albemarle street—Elizabeth Ertz!

She had on a pale-blue apron and house slippers, and seemed to be very much at home as she picked up some of the children's scattered toys and vanished into a room to the left of the hall.

"Ah, she's been here all morning—with Pat!" Lily said to herself, and began backing down the steps, trying to smile and to listen to Sadye Jetterson.

"I'll have a party for you soon. I know you want to meet all of Pat's friends," Sadye was saying. But she did not raise her voice or turn her head to summon the one particular friend of his who was inside the house!

Lily started away, sick and dizzy with anger and jealousy.

"You're going the wrong way! The garage is up this way!" Sadye Jetterson called after her. But she pretended that she did not hear. . . . She was not going to go after Pat now! He could stay in that garage with the Jetterson woman's husband until he grew a beard, and she would not go one foot in his direction, she told herself, fairly choking with fury.

She was taking off her hat in their bedroom when he drove into the yard. She watched him jump out of the delivery automobile and start across the grass to the house, the sun shining on his crisp, dark hair, his lean, tanned cheeks. Oh, he was good looking, wasn't he? There never was anybody any better looking, she decided. Never.

But he closed her jealous heart against him, and locked the door of the room when she heard him running up the stairs to her.

"Hello, Peach!" he called, as he came, and she could not mistake the eagerness in his voice.

He tried the door, and called out to her again: "Babe!"

"What do you want?"

"You, of course."

She smiled bitterly to herself. "Go away," she said, sullenly, her eyes on the panels of the door that was closed and locked between them. "I'm not going to get up today. I don't feel well. . . . Just go away."

Silence. Then his voice: "Please open the door. . . . What's the matter? Have you a headache?"

"What do you care what I have?" Lily snapped at him. "You haven't cared what happened to me all morning. You go back to the Jettersons' and spend the rest of the day. I don't need you. . . . I don't want you."

She refused to say another word after that. She undressed and got into bed, and lay there listening to the sounds in the house.

She was hungry, but she pretended to be asleep when Florence came upstairs to plead with her to come down to dinner.

Then Pat's mother came up the stairs and pleaded with her. "No wonder you don't feel well, shut up there with all that cigaret smoke all morning long!" she said. "Now, do come down. I've baked a chicken and there's fresh asparagus and strawberry short cake—"

Lily jumped out of bed and opened the door. The small woman stood outside, her work-worn hands clasped over the front of her starched white apron. There was a troubled, anxious look in her bright blue eyes.

"Mrs. France, I'd love some food," Lily half whispered, "but I'm not coming down for it. Please give me something on a tray."

The blue eyes studied her for a moment. Then Pat's mother said: "Very well, my dear," in a brisk, matter-of-fact way, and she trotted down the stairs.

"She says she'll eat up there," Lily heard her say.

Presently steps sounded on the stairs, and a tray was set down on the floor outside the locked door. But by that time, Lily was no longer hungry. She was crying like a spoiled child, because things weren't turning out the way she wanted them to! Everything was all wrong.

She stayed in the closed room all day long, and Pat slept on the couch in the parlor that night.

Pat was gone when she woke up on Monday morning.

The little house was empty, and there was no noise in it except the bubbling of water in a clothes boiler on the kitchen stove when Lily went down stairs to ask for her breakfast.

She went out of the back door and crossed the yard to the side door of the grocery store. Within there was dimness and a heavenly smell of ginger and cocoa and fresh bread and freshly-ground coffee and peppermint candy.

Behind the counter, well up toward the front of the store, Pat's mother was cutting York State cheese with a patented cheese cutter, and humming "Carry Me Back To Old Virginny" while she did it.

She gave Lily a twinkling, friendly smile when she saw her. "My, but somebody looks pretty this morning!" she said cheerfully. "All in yellow silk! Do you feel better this morning, my dear?"

Lily said she did. "And I'm hungry as a hunter," she said. "So will you get me something to eat? Just some black coffee and some orange juice will do."

Pat's mother nodded. "All right. You take my place, and wait on anybody who comes in," she said. "France is out delivering—"

"I?" Lily broke in, her eyebrows lifted, her chin in the air. "I? Stand behind a counter and wait on these people down here? Oh, no, you don't know me! I'm not used to waiting on ANYBODY, and I'll never be a grocery clerk! Not even for a minute!"

CHAPTER XXVI.

PAT'S mother pushed her steel-rimmed glasses up on her forehead and peered at Lily with narrowed eyes.

Later on, when she came to know her better, Lily was to find out that whenever she wanted to see plainly she did that—pushed the spectacles up out of her way and squinted hard with her bright blue eyes.

"Well, now, that's not going to hurt you—to stand behind this counter for a minute and wait on a customer or two, my dear child," she said, in her gentle, sensible way. "I'm waiting on you when I go over to the house to get breakfast for you? Isn't that so? And somebody's got to be in the store while I'm gone. I can't leave it, otherwise." She spoke patiently, as if she were explaining to a bad child why it must do a certain thing.

Noel Veritzen Adopts a Hostile Attitude Toward the Youthful Stranger

SOMETHING in the tensity of the gaze which the young man with the wolfhound fixed upon Eleanor Lincoln's face attracted the eyes of the rest of us to his own countenance.

"The dog appears to know you well," he said at last, voicing something which the rest of us already had noted with astonishment. "And I myself am a bit puzzled. Have I not met you somewhere?"

I saw Noel Veritzen's figure stiffen, and realized that he thought the newcomer was presumptuous and attempting to use the incident as a means of furthering an acquaintance with us. He had not been blind, I knew, to the look of admiration in the stranger's eyes when he first caught sight of Mary Harrison's lovely face, and I was afraid that the antagonism between the two young men, already aroused by the dog's onslaught and Noel's glowering reception of the other man's apology would be freshly fed by the young violinist's present manner.

Curiously enough, I found my own sympathies ranged on the side of the newcomer. He was so charmingly courteous, so genuinely distressed because of the dog's behavior, that it would have been a hard-hearted woman, indeed, who would not have pardoned him. I resolved that as soon as Miss Lincoln had answered his question, I would show in some way my recognition of his apologies.

My young neighbor's reply, however, made any other friendliness unnecessary. To my surprise, she, usually so haughty with strangers, was almost effusive in her cordiality.

"All dogs like me," she said. "I suppose it is because I adore them, and am used to handling them. They always come to me like this."

I could not help the grim little reflection that if the young woman's statement were true, her proximity must sometimes be embarrassing for her friends. I could imagine many pleasanter happenings than the sudden leaping of a large and strange, even though friendly, dog into one's lap.

"What is this dog's name?" she went on, her large pansy eyes reflecting only child-like inquiry.

The strange young man looked at her steadily. My imagination, in Dicky's slangy parlance, "working overtime," registered an eerie little impression as of duelists feeling for their weapons.

"Fedor," he said crisply.

Miss Lincoln clasped her hands a bit theatrically.

"I knew it!" she exclaimed. "I had a dog named Fedor not long ago, only he was a collie, and from force of habit I always call every dog Fedor. When this dog jumped on me, I said, 'Down, Fedor!' without thinking, and he lay down at once. So I knew his name must be Fedor," she concluded naively.

The young man had not taken his eyes from her face as she talked. There was still in his own countenance the bewilderment which had come into it when he had gotten his first look at the charming young chatelaine of The Larches. But his comment upon her little speech was crisp, with no uncertainty in its tones.

"You loved your dog so dearly," he said, "that you must miss him very much."

I think even Noel Veritzen, engrossed in his instinctively jealous dislike of the stranger, noticed the oddity of the young man's phrasing. It was not a question, but an assertion. Even more curious, however, was Miss Lincoln's reply.

"I do," she said. "But I have found no dog worthy to take his place until I saw this one. Tell me, would it be impossible for you to relinquish the care of Fedor to me while his owner is—absent?"

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

U.S. Senator from New York

Food for Aviator on a Sixty-Hour Test

DR. COPELAND

A FEW weeks ago I had a telegram from a famous aviator. He told me of a contemplated endurance flight and asked me to suggest the foods best adapted for persons attempting a 60-hour effort. What would you say in reply to such a query?

Sixty hours in your comfortable home would not be regarded as a long time. But I imagine that 60 sleepless, anxious, watchful, dangerous hours would make terrific demands upon mind and body.

One can go without food for 60 hours and not suffer anything more than pangs of hunger. But 60 hours in an airplane without sleep and under the strain of constant flight, must make it important to keep the system in the fittest possible state.

In the first place, it is important to keep the system cleansed from poisons which might lessen the alertness of brain function and nerve response. To avoid this danger it is necessary to take an abundance of water.

Every cell of the body is bathed in fluid. To nourish it and cleanse it, there must be constant renewal of the fluid. In a sense, the cells and fibers of the body must be washed.

As I think about it, it is important to drink lots of pure water. That is the first item of advice to give the aviator.

In an air flight there is exposure to extreme cold. The body must be guarded against this and kept warm as possible, or its functions will be disturbed.

To meet the emergencies of the effort, to operate the mechanism of the plane, to keep awake and alert, there must be expended a tremendous quantity of energy.

Heat and energy are given the body by the burning up in its tissues of certain foods, called the "carbohydrates." These are the starches and sugars. The fats contribute in the same way.

The next thing to think about is to feed the fats and carbohydrates. Cream, sugar, sweet chocolate, bread and portions of cheese, are splendid foodstuffs to supply these elements.

You will see why I recommended chocolate bars, cheese sandwiches, and lots of cream and sugar added to the coffee. The starch of the bread, the fat of the cream, and the sweet things will furnish heat and energy.

Of course there is need of foods to sustain and restore the muscles. The proteins satisfy this need. For this reason I advised the white meat of chicken and the cheese, which is rich in protein.

Certain minerals are needed, the whole wheat bread will supply these, or some of them. Coffee is stimulating and helps to keep one awake and alert.

In my telegraphic response, I said: "Take chocolate bars, whole wheat cheese sandwiches, white meat of chicken and hot coffee rich in sugar and cream, in thermos bottles. Drink plenty of water and try to take food at regular intervals of about four hours."

Such a menu would serve not only an aviator but anybody who needed concentrated meals. But of course, fruits, vegetables and milk should be added when the diet is to be continued for a long time. Do you agree with my menu?

Answers to Health Queries

K. C. M. Q.—What can be done for a strain in the region of the heart—would digitalis be helpful? It has persisted for three years.

A.—Digitalis might be very helpful but should be advised by your doctor who is naturally familiar with your condition. A heart affection demands specific attention in every instance. It is very important to avoid all undue exertion and excitement and to live a regular, normal life.

A. K. Q.—Would a heart condition in a boy of 11, where two valves of the heart are open cause bleeding from the mouth two or three times daily—the boy is the picture of health otherwise?

A.—Possibly—why not have the doctor familiar with the child's condition advise you along these lines?

HER STOMACH NOW FEELS LIKE NEW

Indigestion Relieved By Ten Herbs, After Other Medicines Failed.

"I suffered so much with stomach trouble that I was nearly a nervous wreck," was the statement of Mrs. Lillian Thompson, 526 North Street, Harrisburg, Pa., according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the great natural medicine, Ten Herbs. "I tried several kinds of medicines, but nothing gave me any relief until I started using Ten Herbs, which made my stomach feel like new and restored my nerves to normal," continued Mrs. Thompson, who is the wife of a prominent contractor, and has lived in Harrisburg twenty years.

"Before taking Ten Herbs, everything I ate seemed to ferment and form gas, which would cause shortness of breath. I also had bad dizzy spells, and was so nervous at times that I would lie awake all night long and would feel exhausted the next morning. I was constipated and had to use a laxative almost every night.

"Ten Herbs is truly a great medicine. It gave me perfect digestion. I have not had a dizzy spell since I began using this preparation. I am glad to endorse this medicine to the public."

Although your bowels may be regular, your system might be clogged with poisonous waste matter and impurities, causing you to feel tired all the time and lack ambition. Ten Herbs will give your entire system a thorough cleansing, which usually makes one feel better in many ways. This new herbal compound also is used and highly recommended for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. People who have used Ten Herbs say it is unequaled as a medicine that will build strength, add weight, increase energy, relieve aches and pains and restore appetite and sleep.

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, January 12

In change there is nothing terrible, nothing supernatural; on the contrary it lies in the very essence of our lot and life in the world.— CARLYLE.

VERY powerful sidearal operations point to this day as one of unusual opportunity for advancement in many directions.

Business and employment are most auspiciously aspected for advantages and promotion and there is forecast of splendid alliances with large corporations. But unless well-directed effort, with calm and discerning demeanor be maintained there may be financial hazards.

Hasty moves and ill-considered changes may lead to self-undoing.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of splendid opportunity for progress and advancement. Business, employment and change offer advantage, but these should not be embraced hastily or without proper, cool consideration.

A child born on this day should be excellently equipped for success and prosperity in life, but it may be assisted in these directions by training in self-control, cool judgment and careful expenditures of funds.

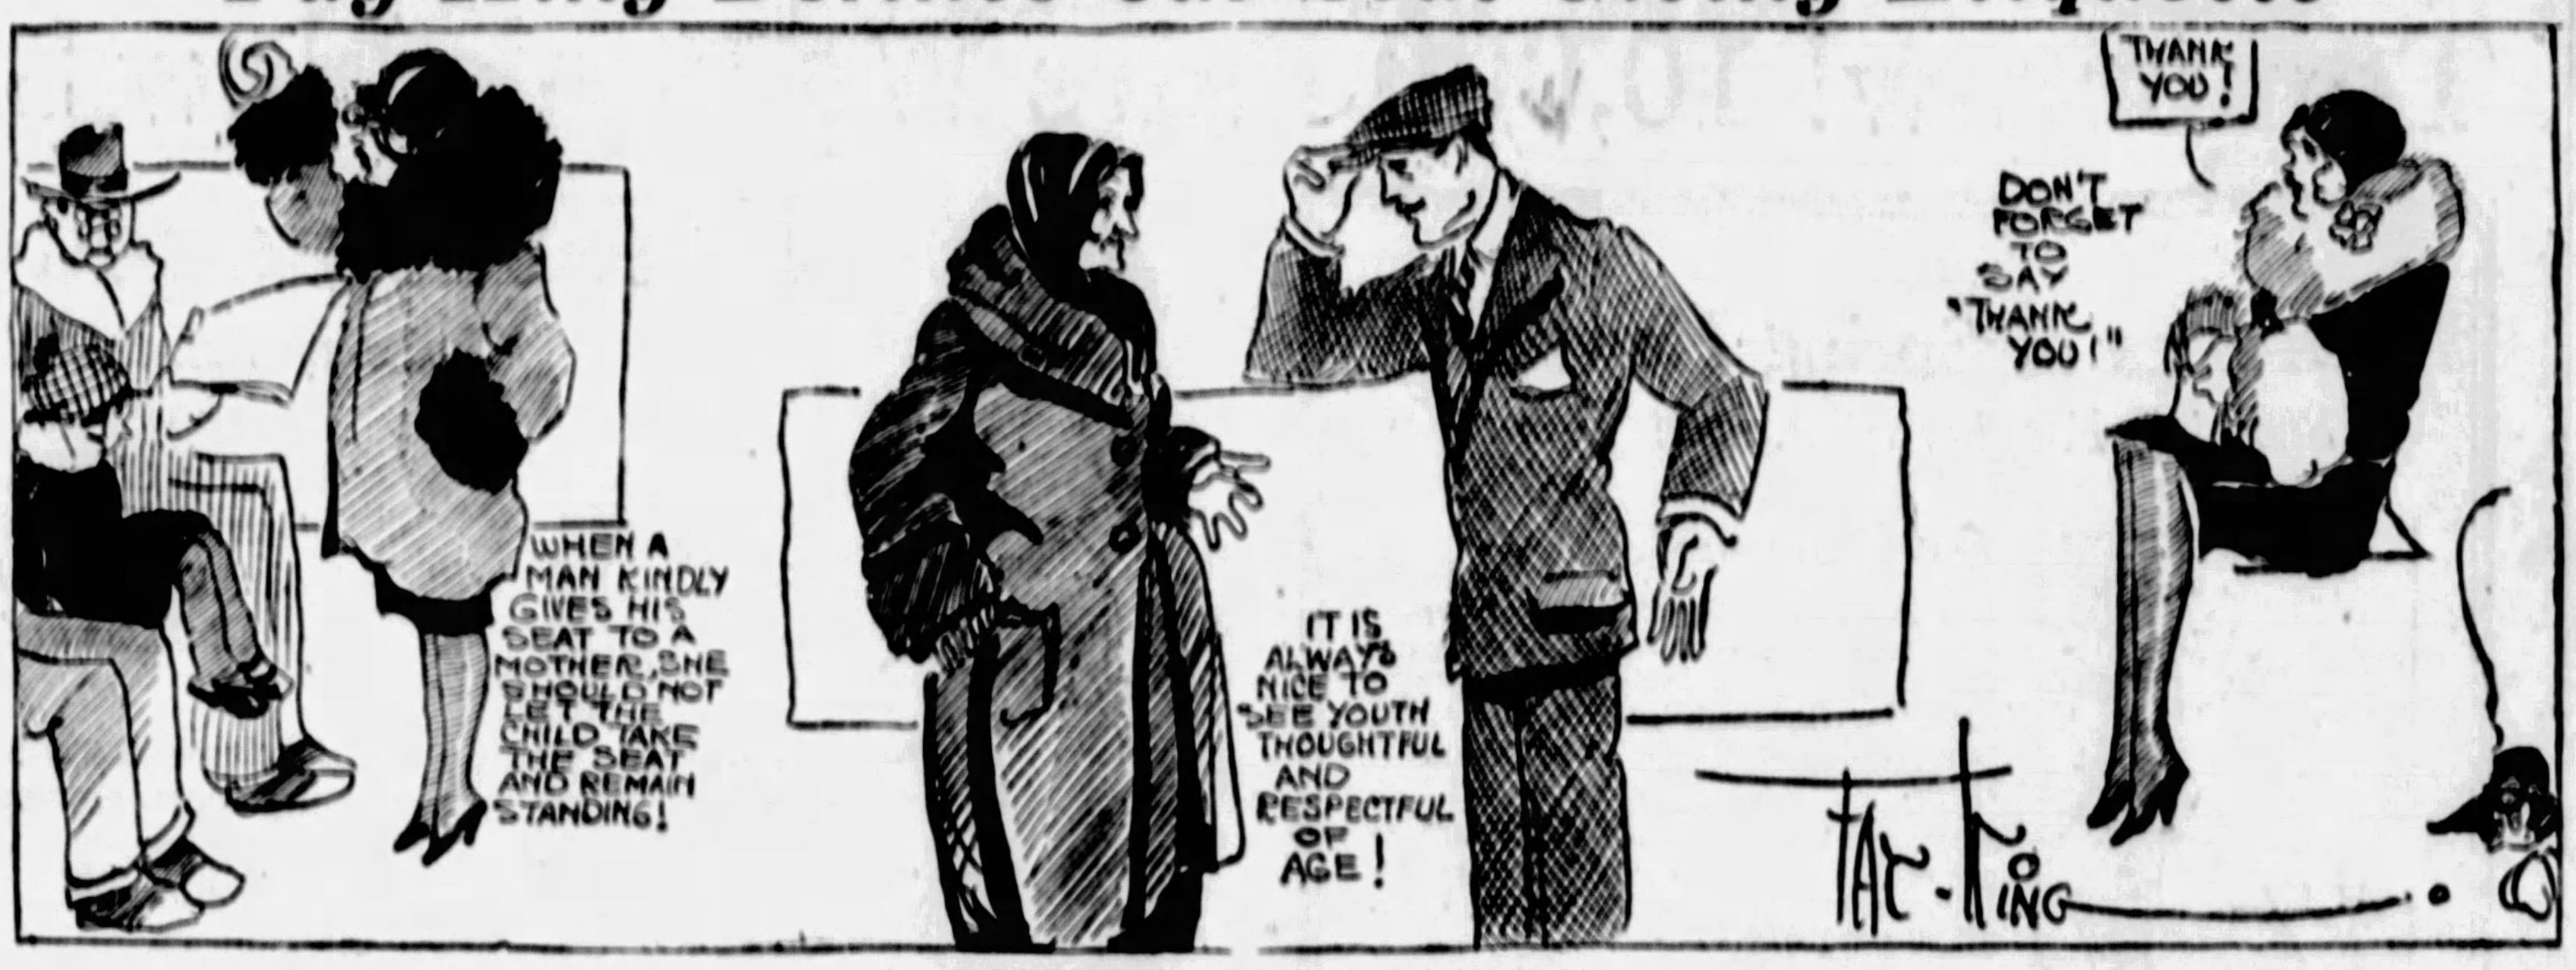
Fay King Defines Car-Seat-Giving Etiquette



WHEN A MAN KINDLY GIVES HIS SEAT TO A MOTHER, SHE SHOULD NOT LET THE CHILD TAKE THE SEAT AND REMAIN STANDING!
IT IS ALWAYS NICE TO SEE YOUTH THOUGHTFUL AND RESPECTFUL OF AGE!
THANK YOU!
DON'T FORGET TO SAY "THANK YOU!"
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

WHEN a man removes his hat in an elevator, or gives a woman his seat in the car, the point made is not so much the respect he shows her as the respect she feels for him!

In showing her this respect, he has made himself worthy of her highest respect.

There is no law that compels any man to do these things. Yet in doing them, he silently proclaims the estimation in which he holds his own women folks.

One feels that what he does is not so much for one personally as in deference to those women who are in his own life.

In a crowded car the thoughtful young man who gives his seat to an aged woman, a feeble old man, or a cripple, shows at once that though he may wear soiled working clothes, he is better bred than the well-dressed banker who buries his head in the market page of his paper!

Good manners are like the boomerang which thrown properly returns to the thrower. It is always nice to see youth respectful of old age and helplessness. It makes youth even more attractive.

I do not think a tired laborer need get up and give his seat to a young, strong, business girl, and she does not expect it. However, it is a very nice gesture if he does.

I believe a young, strong, business girl should be as quick to give her seat to an aged or helpless person as a young man should.

I do not blame men for being annoyed at mothers who put their small child in the seat he gives to them and then glare at the man next to the child until he gives them his seat also.

These small children do not pay a fare and are not entitled to a seat. The mother should hold them on her lap!

Never fail to thank a man for the seat he gives you. You should be as polite and thoughtful as he has been!

BEING A MAN'S "GOOD INFLUENCE"

EVERY woman yearns to be some man's "Good Influence."

The man who gives her the Big Thrill of her life, is not the one who paints himself in glowing colors and expects her to admire him, but the one who paints his sins in vermillion and begs her to "save" him.

* * *

Every girl knows intuitively that the psychological moment in a love-affair is that in which a man stops thinking of her as a "temptation" and begins thinking of her as his "salvation."

HELEN ROWLAND

Every man wants one woman in his life to appeal to his "finer self," no matter how many others may appeal to his grosser self. And there is nothing which will give a girl's vanity such a "kick," and make her so tender, sweet and sympathetic, as being elected that "One Woman."

It is not the good scout who helps him to acquire his headaches, but the "good influence" who CURES them and soothes them, that a man finds indispensable.

It is not the girl who shares his wild times, but the girl to whom he can go and "confess" them—to whom he longs to tell his troubles, his problems, his sins and his grievances—who is finally chosen to brighten his life.

* * *

The girl who insists on being dragged around to expensive jazz places, petted and amused doesn't stand a chance against the girl who will let a man loll around the house and TALK about himself.

BODY ODOR...here's the plain truth about it

IT IS no secret that body odor offends. In business, as well as socially, it is a serious handicap.

But do you realize that we are all subject to body odor? That at times nearly everyone is guilty?

And the stuffy, indoor life we lead in winter, travel in close, crowded cars—all make body odor more readily noticed now than ever.

We must perspire—or die. Even on coldest days our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

The danger of offending without realizing it

Whether you see this waste body moisture or not—it is always odorous. And it spares no one! Financier or laborer—society leader or servant—all may offend if they don't take precautions.

Body odor more noticeable in winter—due to stuffy rooms—closed windows . .

Pores give off as much as a quart of waste a day—even in coldest weather . . . . .

Now, a purifying toilet soap. Its antiseptic lather keeps you safe from body odor . .

Nor, unfortunately, can we tell when we ourselves are guilty of unpleasant body odor.

For once we become accustomed to an odor, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why even the most fastidious people—people who think they are safe—are often among the chief offenders.

Don't risk embarrassment

It's easy now to avoid body odor. Simply wash and bathe often with Lifebuoy, the deodorizing toilet soap.

Just as its mild, antiseptic lather protects health by removing germs—so does it prevent body odor by purifying pores.

And you'll be delighted how fresh and clear Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather keeps complexions. Like millions of others, you'll favor it for every toilet purpose.

Note its hygienic scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's clean scent, which proves Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

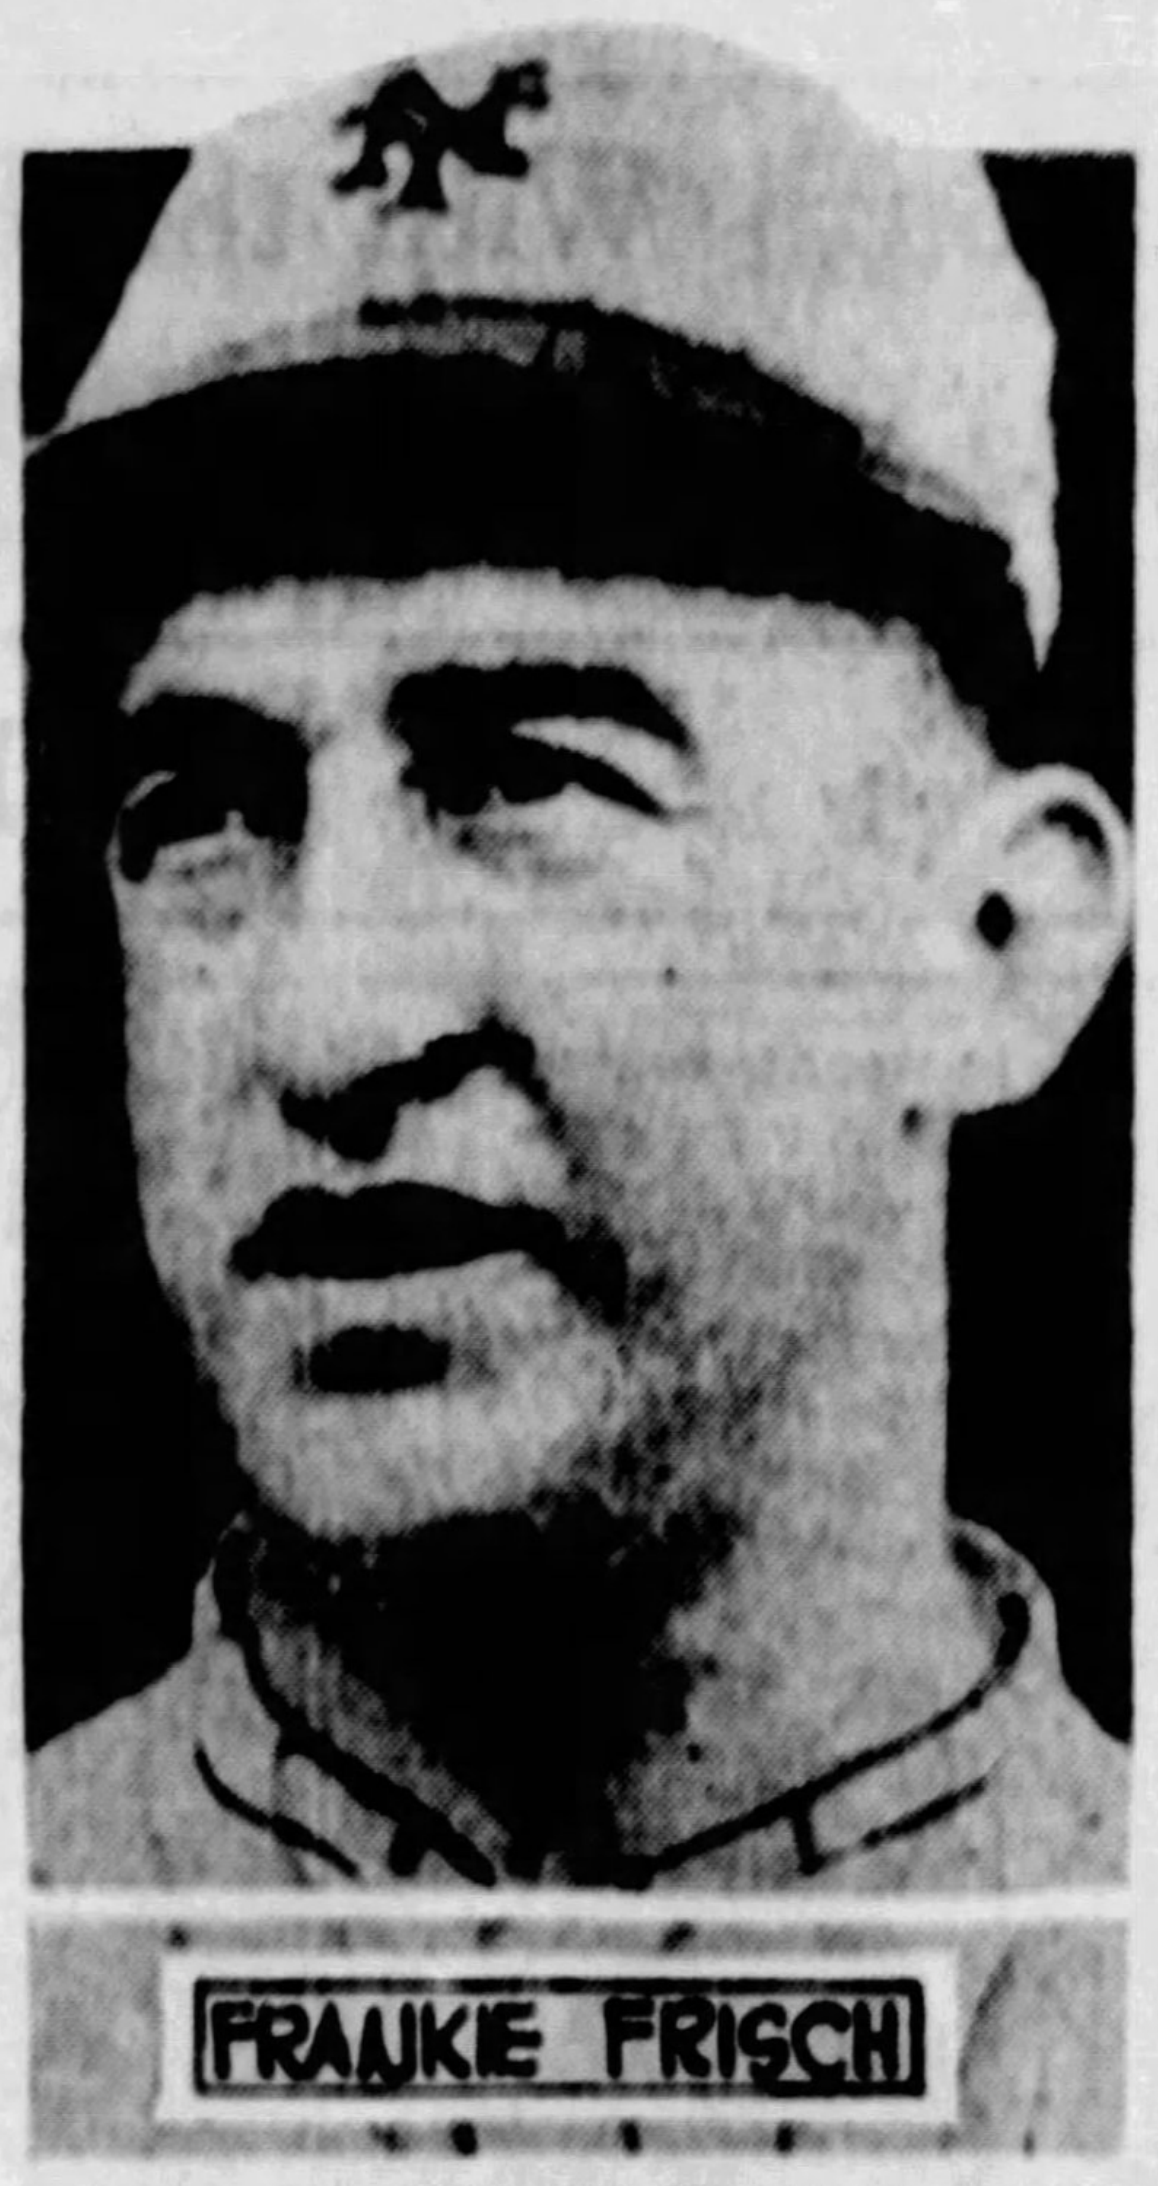
FIGURES IN MYSTIFYING -:- TRADE OF ROGERS HORNSBY -:- BY GIANTS TO BRAVES

JOHN McGRAW

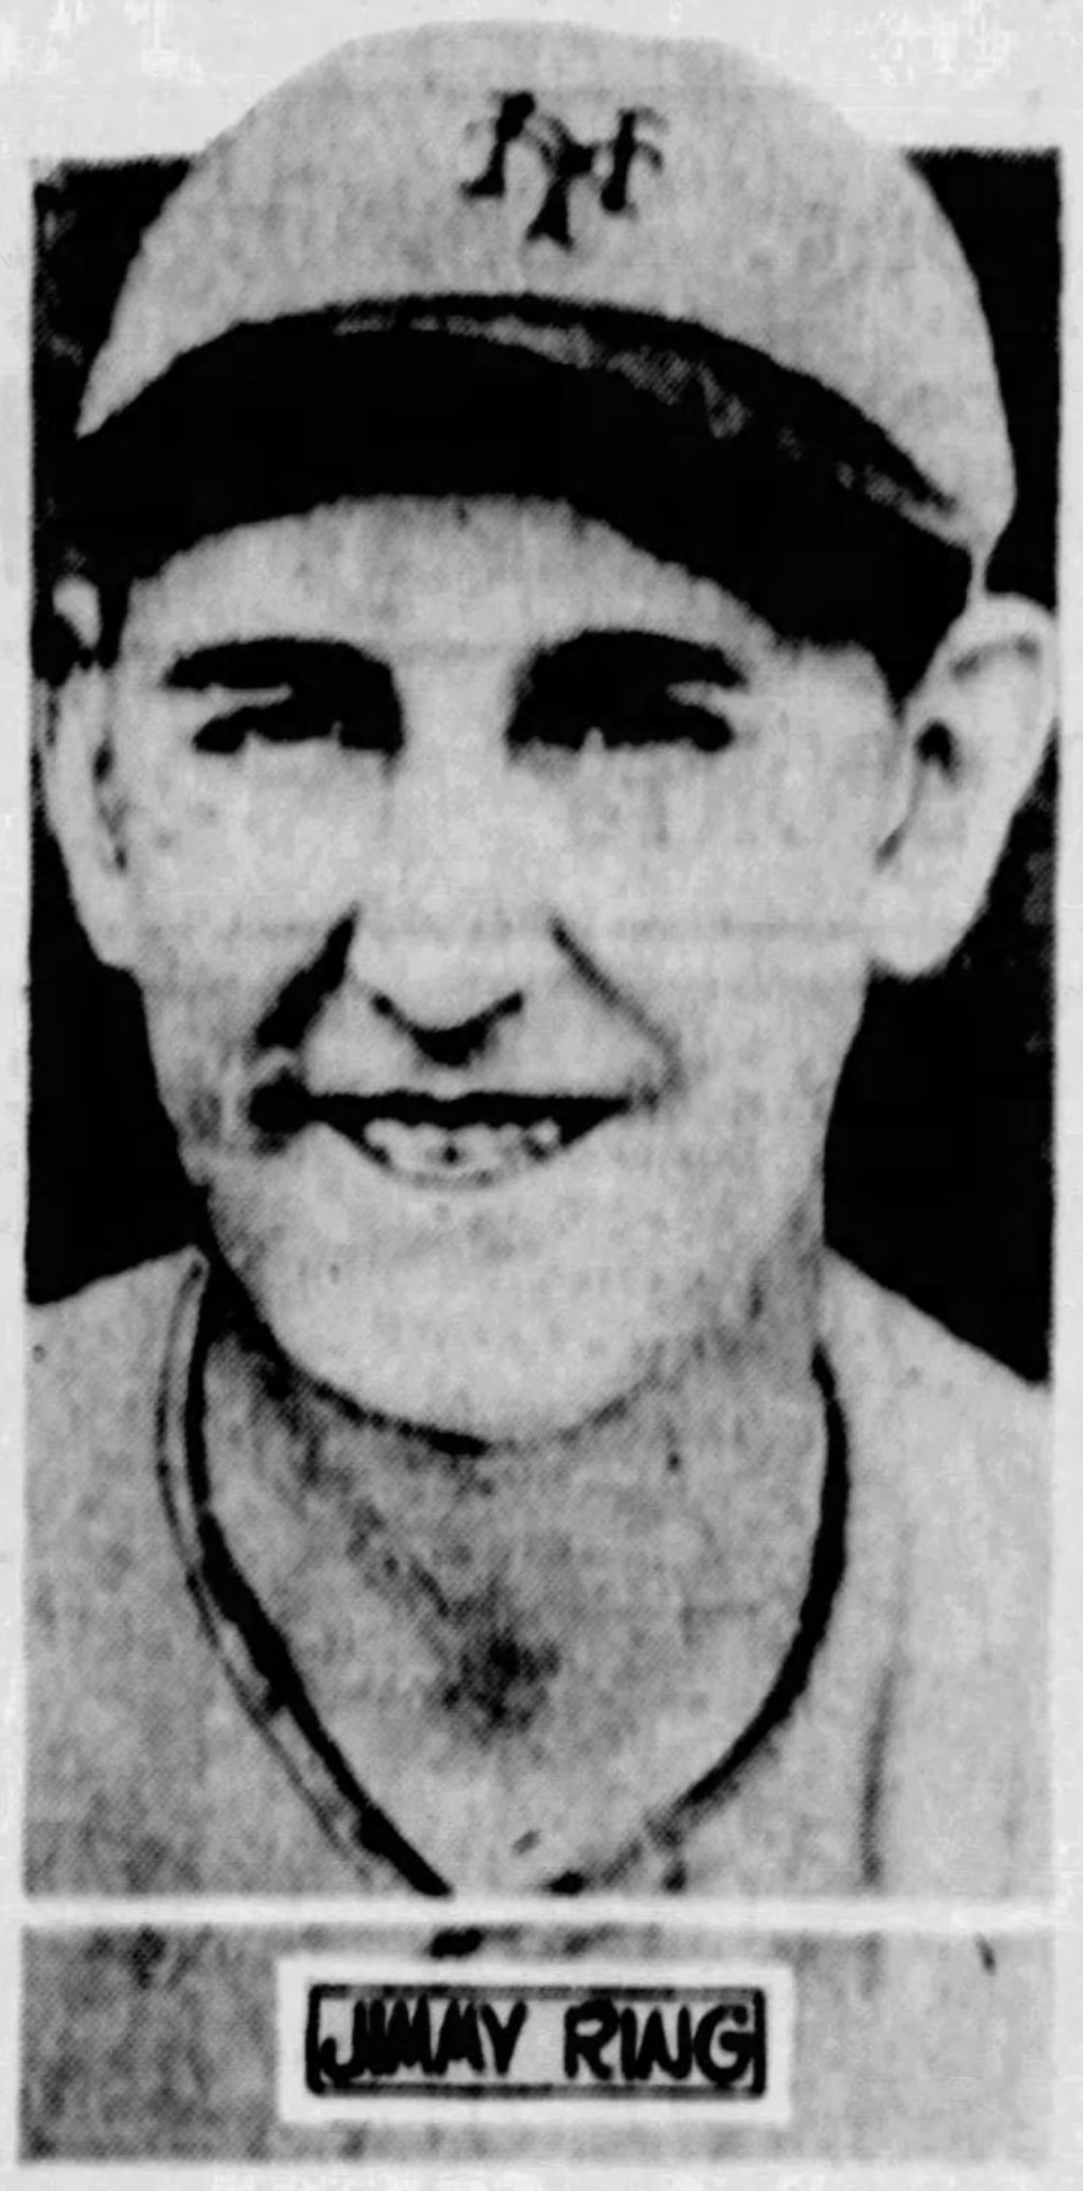
Here is the man, manager of the New York Giants, who startled the baseball world by trading Rogers Hornsby, star of stars, to the Boston Braves "for the best interests of the club."

ROGERS HORNSBY

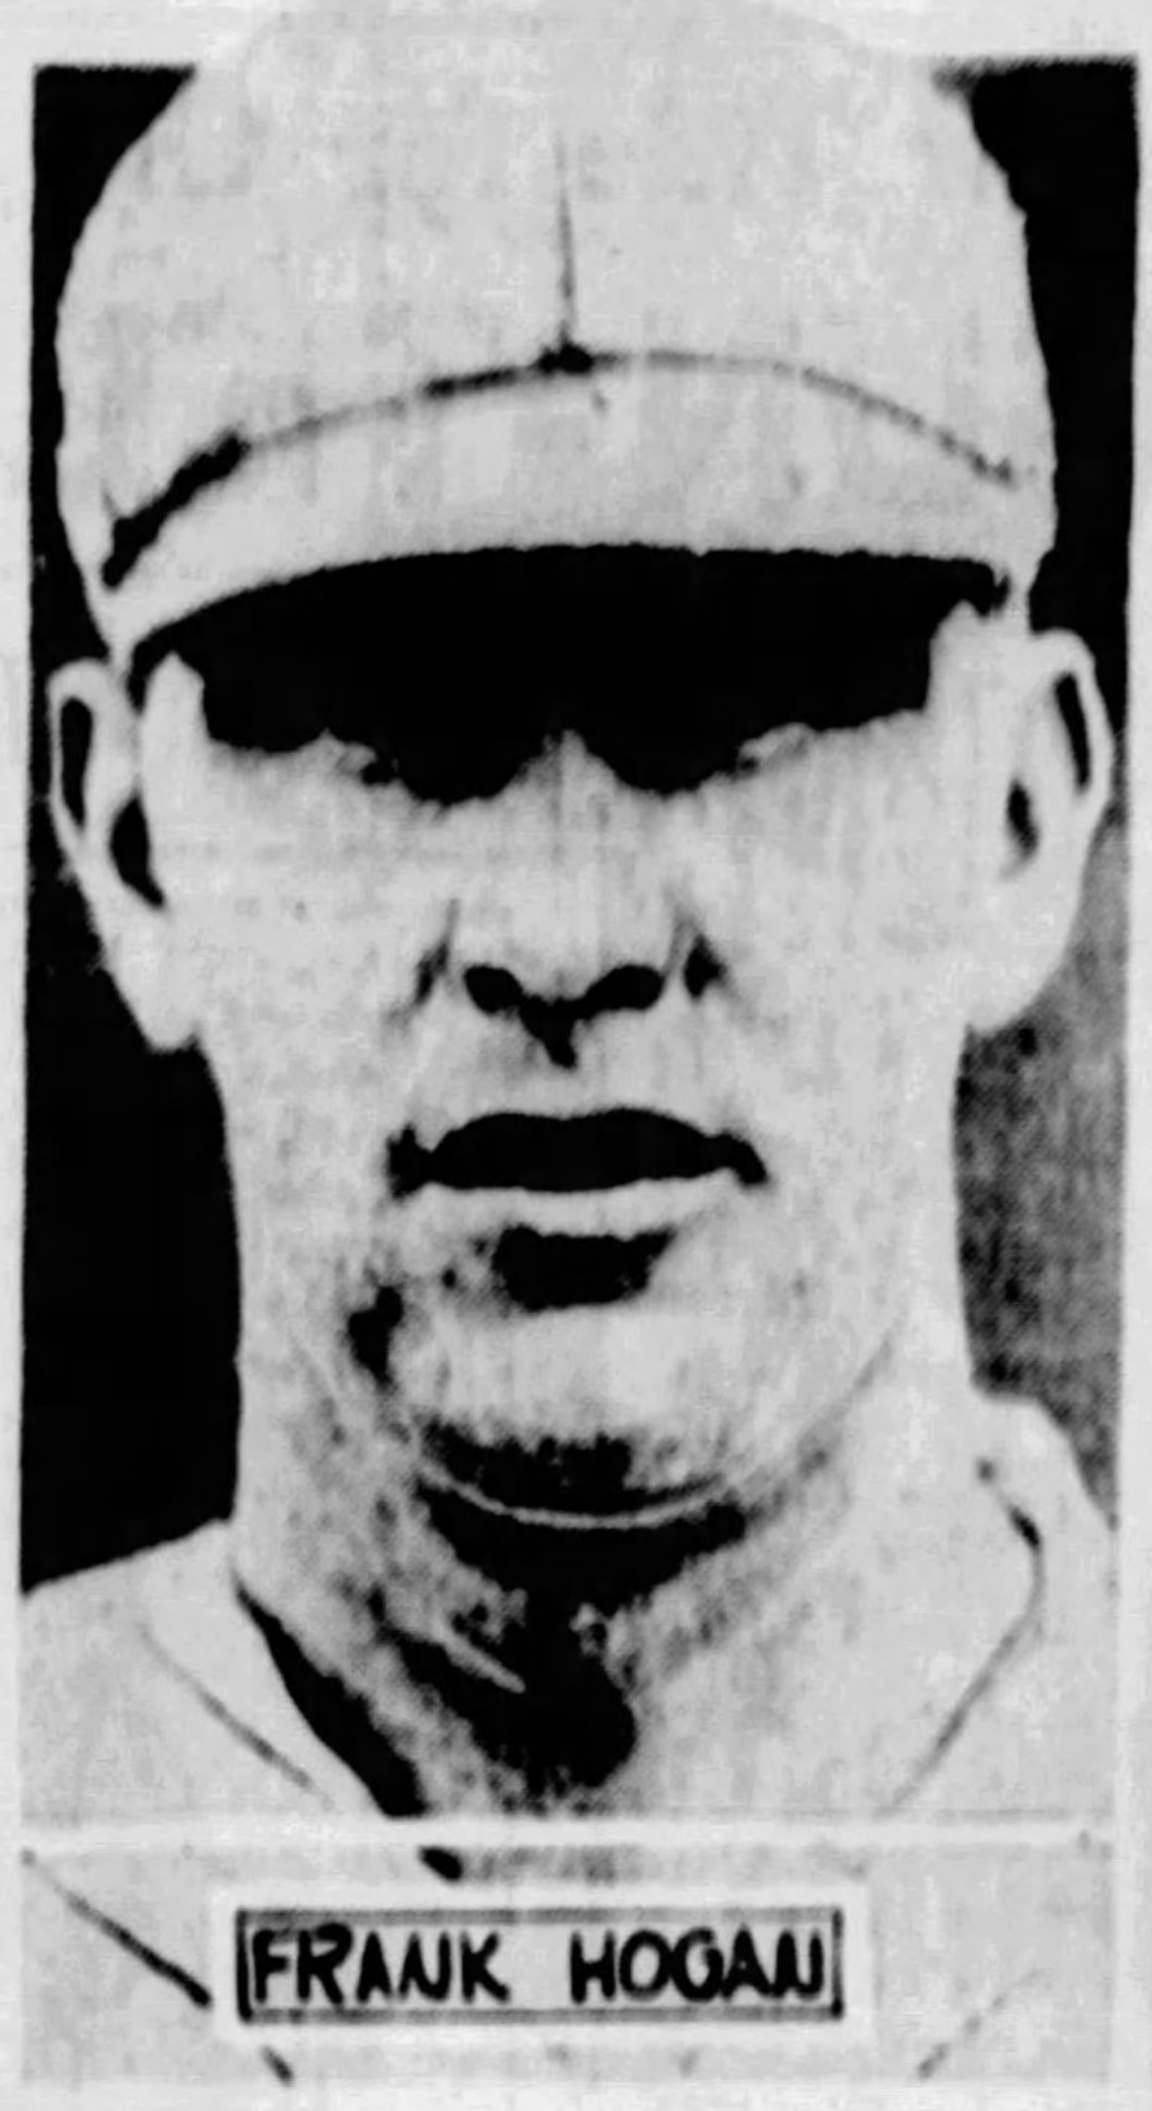
And here is the Rajah himself, star second basman and manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in 1926, who was purchased the following winter by McGraw, who prided himself on making the deal.



And here is the Fordham Flash, who was to the Giants what Hornsby was to the Cardinals in the way of superior talent, but was traded along with Pitcher Jimmy Ring for Hornsby.



And here is the second part of the Frisch and Ring-for Hornsby dicker, who has managed to escape from St. Louis, but finds himself in a worse predicament, traded back to the Phillies, from whom the Giants obtained him.



And here is T. Francis Hogan, the young catcher who was given by the Braves, along with Jimmy Welch, outfielder, to the Giants in exchange for Hornsby in the big deal.

HORNSBY TRADED TO END PILOT ROW

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

BASEBALL, fretting on the threshold of the 1928 season, is agog today over the trade announced by the New York Giants last night, which sent Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman and slugger of the McGrawmen last year to the Boston Braves in exchange for Frank Hogan, a catcher, and Jimmy Welsh, outfielder.

The suddenness of the deal alone was enough to stun the baseball world, and the many angles connected with the trade, together with the idea in the minds of many that the Giants got the better of the bargain, will keep fans in an uproar from now until the opening of the season.

IT SEEMS the Braves, while they they obtained a good ball player, failed to gain any strength through the trade. They gave away two up and coming youngsters, with fine possibilities, for a player fast approaching the veteran stage, if not already there. Hogan is considered one of the best young catchers in the National League, and Welsh, a good hitter, with a fine throwing arm and fielding ability, was rated with the best outfielders in the league last season.

SUCH a deal cannot help but revive rumors that have been heard in times past regarding a possible hook-up between the New York and Boston clubs. New York has always been able to obtain players from the Braves when players were needed. The fact that New York always seemed to get the better of deals with Boston has led to an undercurrent belief that New York and Boston were practically one.

THERE has been a rumor since the close of the season, that Hornsby would be appointed manager of the Giants for 1928, to replace McGraw who was slated to

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

CHAMPIONS ALL RATE HIGH IN LISTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP.)—For the fourth successive year, Tex Rickard has lined up the rank and file of pugilists for "The Ring," a boxing publication, and at the head of the parade set Gene Tunney, who just recently declared war on the promoter.

All recognized champions lead their classes except in the somewhat junior welterweight section, where Ruby Goldstein gains top position over Mushy Callahan, hailed as champion of the 140-pound class.

In all but the heavyweight class the promoter split the divisions into two groups, only the first of which were ranked numerically. Among the ponderous battlers, Rickard set Tunney first, Jack Dempsey second and Jack Sharkey third before dividing the remainder of the heavyweights into two groups.

Rickard deplored the lack of outstanding foreign contenders in a copyrighted article accompanying the selections. He declared Gene Tunney the "big sensation of last year, as he was the shining light of 1926."

SAYS GENE GREAT

"There is no denying that Tunney is not only a champion, but a great champion," he said. "I believe that he is one of the greatest champions the class has seen. Any man who saw Dempsey make the most desperate effort of his entire career and send Tunney down—and then saw Tunney come out of this crisis and fight back until he hurt his man, must admit that in Gene Tunney the American ring has developed another outstanding

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—Jake Schaefer annexed both afternoon and evening blocks in his 3,600-point 18.1 balkline billiard match with Welker Cochran yesterday to lead in the play by 1,200 to 894. Schaefer won the afternoon block by 300 to 169 in 11 innings and took the night contest, 300 to 184, in 14 innings with an unfinished high run of 122.

MOORE TOPS A. L. LOOP IN EFFECTIVENESS

THE most effective pitcher in the American League for the 1827 season was Wilcy Moore of the New York Yankees although his work for the year consisted chiefly in relieving mates in distress. He was in 50 ball games during the season though he pitched only six complete games. However, he pitched 213 innings all told and held opponents in 2.28 runs nine innings. The records gave him credit for winning 19 games and charged him with the loss of seven.

Waite Hoyt of the same team was second in effectiveness having allowed 2.64 runs per nine innings while Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox and Urban Shocker of the Yankees were tied for third, each having allowed 2.84 runs per nine innings.

Hoyt pitched 256 innings though he was in only 36 games. He was credited with winning 22 and charged with the loss of seven. Lyons pitched 308 innings, being tied with his mate, Al Thomas, for the league in that respect. Lyons was credited with 22 victories and charged with 14 defeats. Shocker pitched 200 innings and had a record of 18 victories and six defeats.

Lefty Grove of the Athletics was the strike out king of the year having fanned 174 batters in the 262 innings he pitched. However, he allowed 3.20 runs per nine innings. Earl Whitehill of Detroit was the wildest hurler of them all giving 105 bases on balls in the 236 innings he pitched. Braxton, the Washington southpaw, though he didn't pitch one complete game, was in more games than any pitcher in the league when he appeared in 59 contests. All told he pitched only 156 innings.

SWAP HAS "FREAK" FLAVOR

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

DECLARING it would be presumptious, as president of a disinterested club, to make any critical statement on a deal involving two other clubs, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates today refused to discuss ramifications that might be allied with the deal between New Yo k and Boston of the National League whereby Secondbaseman Rogers Hornsby, great hitter, goes to the Braves in exchange for Outfielder Jimmy Welsh and Catcher Francis Hogan.

"It's not our affair—we are concerned in the matter of giving Pittsburgh a good ball club," was the gist of Dreyfuss' remarks.

It is an open secret, however, that National League magnates other than those connected with the trade feel that there are still financial connections between the Giants and Braves.

In years gone by the Giants were able to swing peculiar deals with Boston and Philadelphia in the midst of a flag fight. The exchanges were so raw that Judge Landis and his brethren finally took action, although the officials of the sport were tardy in their actions.

After the strange deals had been going on for several seasons the powers that be promulgated a law

Ted Corbett, former University of Pittsburgh track star, twice captain of the cross country team and a leader of the varsity track team in 1924 was married recently to Miss Helen Topping of Mt. Lebanon, a student in the Carnegie art school.

Corbett led the Pitt team that won the National Intercollegiate cross country championship in 1924 over the Van Cortlant Park course in New York City. He also placed high in several big intercollegiate mile and 2-mile cinder track events.

Geneva, Dukes Win

BETHANY, W. Va., Jan. 11.—Duquesne University floor squad, flashing a brilliant attack, easily defeated the Bisons of Bethany College here last night, 34 to 20.

Taking the lead from the start the Pittsburghers were never headed and steadily pulled away from the local cagers. Benedict, Duquesne's roving guard was the sensation of the game, looping five field goals and making two of three fouls.

The lineup:

Duquesne—34.		Bethany—20.
Reich	F.	Markley
Lasman	F.	Rush
Vernon	C.	Damschroder
Benedict	G.	C. Hamill
Stevens	G.	Baker

SKIBOS BEATEN

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 11.—Carnegie Tech's varsity basketball team lost its third game in as many starts here last night when it bowed to the Geneva College Covenanters. The score was 32-18.

Geneva got away to a good lead and was never headed. An airtight defense kept the Tartans popping at the basket from well out on the floor, while the Genevians were able to work through the Tech defense almost at will while the regulars

STONEHAM EXPLAINS BRAVES SWAP

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves, "In order to avoid any future conflict in the management of the club and for no other reason," Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, said today in explaining the sensational baseball deal, announced last night, by which the Giants sent Hornsby to the Braves for Catcher Hogan and Outfielder Welsh.

The statement follows:

"Supplementing the statement made by this club last evening regarding the Hornsby and Hogan-Welch transaction, I wish to say that the deal was made in order to avoid any future conflict in the management of the club and for no other reason. Statements have been made throughout the country that Mr. Hornsby would be the future manager of this club. I have never been consulted regarding this and have had no conference about the selection of a manager, as Mr. McGraw still retains the management of the New York Giants. The club believes that in this deal it has been strengthened behind the bat and in the outfield. These additional players added to our present roster indicate to us that we will be among the foremost contenders for the coming National League pennant.

"We feel that we have done what is for the best, looking toward the future welfare of the organization, and I trust that the REVENGE will be the objective of the Goldensons tonight when they meet the J. J. Mieles, P. & O. League champions, in a return battle at the South Side Market House.

The Goldensons dropped a hard-fought battle to the Mieles at Columbus Temple recently, forcing the winners into an extra period before bowing in defeat.

The South Siders believe they hold an edge over the league champions at the Market House and will be out tonight to turn the tables on their old rivals.

The contest has stirred up considerable interest in local basketball circles and indications are that a banner turnout of supporters will accompany the Mieles to the Tenth street auditorium.

DRIBBLES

The Enoch Rauh Club will invade Duquesne tonight to meet the Duquesne Lafayettes, champions of the Allegheny County League.

The Commercial-Industrial League is playing its last game at the Market House. The officials have obtained the use of Fifth Avenue High for Wednesdays and Columbus Temple for Fridays.

Nate Lippe, star of the Enoch Rauh Club last winter, will be back in Allegheny County League for the second round of play as a member of the same team.

The Winslow Club, last year's junior champions, clinched the laurels in the first half of the Major League when it defeated the McKeesport Alumni team last night at Columbus Temple. Winslow scored seven victories in a row.

Dravo Construction will attempt to score its fifth straight Commercial-Industrial League victory tomorrow night, when it meets Duquesne Light. Kaufmanns and Hornes clash in the second battle.

The Moon Klinzings have a slight lead in the City League race, with six victories and three defeats. This club has been showing fine form of late.

Johnny Serbin, former Duquesne University star, is playing a fine floor game for the Enoch Rauhs.

The McKees Rocks-Broadway game scheduled for tomorrow night has been canceled, as both teams are out of the race for the first-cycle honors in the County League. Friday Broadway engages the Duquesne Lafayettes on the Broadway floor.

The McKees Rocks Business Men have decided to withdraw from the County League and will be a member of the P. & O. League during the second half of the season.

The Goose Goslin-Duquesne Lafayette game at the Market House next Monday night concludes the first round schedule of the County League.

The McKeesport Cyclers will invade Canton sometime this month for a battle with the Ohio pros.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association team will meet the Pittsburgh Silents on the Y. M. H. A. floor Saturday night. The Silents are one of the leading amateur attractions in this section.

The Pirate-Chicago hockey game programmed for the Duquesne Garden ice tomorrow night should be nothing short of a battle royal. Last week Odie Cleghorn's skaters hurdled the Hawks and shoved the latter sextet into the cellar berth in the American section and, with a chance to get out of the rut in the coming clash the Windy City puckmen are expected to put up a stubborn battle in spite of their crippled condition.

The Hawks hold one victory over the local lads, having won by a 5 to 2 count in their first and only other meeting so far this year. Cleghorn's warriors, however, are not in the least worried about the outcome and are ready to cope with anything the invaders from the West may offer.

PRESIDENTS FAVORED TO BEAT CHAMPS

By JESS CARVER.

ALL is calm and serene along the Tri-State collegiate basketball front today, following last night's pair of games, which saw the two favorites cop the honors and the dope bucket treated with courtesy and respect.

Duquesne is roosting at the top of the Conference heap, with two victories in as many starts, Bethany having been added to Thiel on the defeat list by the Red and Blue last night. Geneva is making somewhat of a bid for early rating in the non-Conference group by virtue of its win over Carnegie Tech. At the same time, Tech looks to be pointed for a more disastrous season than was experienced last year, and so far has dropped all three games played, with small chance remaining of doing anything worth shouting about against Pitt on Friday.

The schedule for tonight, with Wash-Jeff playing Allegheny at Washington and Geneva opening its Conference competition with a game with a mighty good appearing Westminster five at New Wilmington, and West Virginia tangling with Wesleyan at Buckhannon, is a notable one. The Covenanter-U. P. game looms as being very important, in that it will afford fans the first glimpse of the Blue and White in Conference action, and the President-Methodist game comes next. West Virginia's game with Wesleyan will only be important if Wesleyan wins. It is a case there of man bite the dog, and not the other way around.

Allegheny will be making the first move in defense of its district title tonight in playing Wash-Jeff. Unless the Meadville outfit has improved a lot since losing to Mt. Union, this first move is going to be a disastrous one.

prohibiting any deals between major league teams after June 15. Up to that time the managers could trade with each other until August 15.

Although Dreyfuss and other moguls will be slow to make any public assertion on the swap just completed, it is quite obvious that they would not lay any restraining hands on the executives of the league in the event of an investigation on conditions surrounding the two teams.

The Giant owners were able to pluck two of the Braves' stars in getting rid of the high-priced Hornsby.

Jimmy Welsh is one of the best outfielders in the National League, while Francis Hogan is a catcher of exceptional promise.

Moreover, who will pay Hornsby's salary? It is said that Rogers is drawing down at least $40,000 per season.

MATTOX REINSTATED

Jimmy Mattox, young Virginian who did some relief catching for the Pirates several years ago, after which he retired, has been reinstated by Judge Landis, according to information received at the Pirate offices yesterday from the baseball commissioner.

Mattox, a graduate of Washington and Lee, starred with Rochester before his purchase by the Pirates. The Buccos kept him during 1923, but decided to send him to Wichita Falls. Jim did not care to play minor league ball and later he retired. He is now owned by the Pirates who will decide on his disposition.

The Pirate officials also announced that Dr. William L. Marks of Carnegie Tech would again make the Spring training trip with the club.

retire. Rogers handled the New York club last season when McGraw was ill and unable to be with the team and direct the play. He kept the club in the race and had it playing about the best ball in the league during late July and August.

THE difference of opinion between the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission and the officials of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the Amateur Athletic Union as to whether the state boxing law entitles the commission to collect for the state from amateur boxing shows the 5 per cent state tax levied upon professional exhibitions is going to be settled in court.

Pennsylvania's boxing law on this particular point is rather vague or ambiguous, and though the A. A. U. leaders in the eastern part of the state have regularly paid the tax levied by the commission, President William S. Haddock, Secretary Treasurer John T. Taylor and other Allegheny Mountain Association men have taken the stand that amateur shows are not subject to tax. In this connection they have been supported by City Councilman Harry Little, who, while a member of the Assembly, advocated the exemption of amateur affairs from tax at the time the boxing bill was passed.

Harry Little.

Some time ago the boxing commission asked the state attorney general for an opinion on the question, and that official upheld the commission and said that the amateur shows would have to pay the tax.

The A. M. A. chiefs have refused to accept this ruling as final, however, so the commission and the amateur leaders are going into court on a friendly basis in order to get a definite decree and have the law made clear.

ONE of the most peculiar records ever hung up by a moundsman in the major baseball leagues is disclosed by the official pitching average of the American League for 1927. Garland Braxton, left-hand chucker of the Washington club, was in more games than any other slabman in the league, taking part in no fewer than 59 contests, and yet he did not pitch a single complete game.

It is doubtful if that performance has a parallel in major league history. Bill Sherdel was in an unusually large number of games for the Cardinals a few years ago, Fred Marberry annually turns in a long string of games in which he relieved another hurler, but both managed to squeeze in a full game here and there. Braxton hurled a total of only 156 innings, or an average of less than three innings to each contest in which he worked.

Garland Braxton.

THE patience of the major leagues was well nigh exhausted over the draft question, as President Heydler of the National said when the minor leagues finally "got off their high horse" at the meeting in Chicago Monday and took steps to avert a threatened breach by rescinding the action that had ordered five big minors to drop the modified draft.

If that action had not been taken, the majors would have been found ready to consider the major-minor agreement broken and let the minors shift for themselves.

Even now the "big fellows" are in no overly pleasant frame of mind, as it will be necessary for the National and American leagues to hold a second joint meeting next month to act on some changes that had been suggested in the major-minor agreement. This could have been attended to at the December joint session if the minors had not delayed matters.

THE feelings of the major league club owners on the question may be judged from the following statement by President Heydler of the National:

"Probably the minors have seen the handwriting on the wall and from now on will 'watch their step.'"

AMONG the spectators at the Pitt-Stanford football game at Pasadena on January 2, was Wilbur Cooper, for a long time the star of the Pittsburgh pitching staff. Wilbur, with his family and some other relatives, were strong rooters for the Panthers. Cooper, who now pitches for Oakland in the Pacific Coast League and makes his winter home in Sacramento, writes as follows in a letter describing his trip to the scene of the contest:

Wilbur Cooper.

"We drove to Los Angeles, 435 miles from Sacramento, to see the game, and enjoyed it immensely, the only sad feature of the trip being Pitt's defeat. We were pulling hard for the Panthers to win. We drove back in 14 hours, so you can see we lost no time on the road.

"It won't be long now until we are on our way to another training trip, and, as usual, I am anxious to get started. Will close with a big 'hello' to Pittsburgh and the hope that your Pirates win the pennant again in 1928."

See What Lies Ahead for Our Automobile Industry!

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT is the long-range outlook for the automobile industry? Very inspiring.

GREAT changes are coming in American life. We are going to witness great industrial changes, great economic changes, great financial changes, great social changes.

AN ABUNDANCE of cheap electric power is being made available throughout most part of the continent. Not so long ago a big new industry hesitated to locate in a small community because of the inadequacy or the unreliability of the supply of artificial power. Small struggling utility plants are almost everywhere being merged into strong corporations capable of supplying dependable, adequate service every day and night of the year. To insure against possible emergencies, the large companies now usually link up a transmission line with their neighboring companies' lines—"interconnection", as it is called.

Herbert Hoover, when visiting the Mississippi valley sections which suffered most seriously by the flood, remarked that nothing had impressed him more than the feat accomplished by utility companies in rigging up lights on the tops of poles, houses, etc., in places that had been turned into lakes and keeping the juice flowing.

THIS widespread availability of power is destined to bring an evolution amounting almost to a revolution in the locating of industries.

Already large corporations avoid setting up manufacturing and such-like plants in the crowded sections of big cities. The trend for several years has been towards suburbs of metropolitan cities, towards towns of moderate size and towards communities not formerly owning industrial plants.

WE ARE assured by the forward-looking that this industrial movement away from the hearts of crowded centers is only in its infancy and that we are to witness a dotting of almost the whole continent with small industrial plants to give employment to the rural folks engaged in seasonal agricultural pursuits or not heretofore within reasonable distance of industrial employment.

THIS spreading out of industrial plants will, combined with other coming changes, open countless new outlines for the sale of automobiles, particularly the low-priced types. Already many families who live in large cities do not attempt to use cars but depend on subways, street cars, buses, elevated railways or taxis.

But let these same families move into suburbs, and they promptly buy a car—and use it.

Incidentally, I understand that one of the largest and best-known industrial corporations in the world is planning to move its headquarters from New York city to New Jersey a step which unquestionably will mean the flitting of many families from Manhattan island and Brooklyn to the other side of the Hudson.

ANOTHER thing. Invention, machinery, mass production are enabling American industries to pay higher wages than ever before. This trend is likely to continue. As a consequence, more and more people are able to buy an increasing share of life's comforts and luxuries. Our savings deposits have been growing impressively and already aggregate more than $26,000,000,000. Not only so, but additional millions of employes are becoming owners of securities, and as this movement expands, the incomes of innumerable families will be thereby enlarged.

Thus will the total number of Americans able to purchase automobiles multiply enormously.

BY BRINGING small industries into rural communities, other myriads of car buyers will be created.

WHY well-to-do or wealthy families should content themselves with one automobile is something I never could understand. Progress has already been made in selling two or more to a considerable number of families; but I believe that extraordinary expansion of sales is bound to develop in this direction. Indeed, this phase of the industry is only in its babyhood.

THE billions of dollars now being spent and to be spent on new road building, on street widening, on road improvements will make possible a much wider use of automobiles. And speed limits in non-congested territories are sure to be raised within the next few years.

ALL in all, the long-range outlook for our automobile industry, both at home and in foreign markets, stirs the imagination. The industry is only in its lusty youth.

STOCK MARKET STEADIES AND ADVANCES

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—The stock market resumed its upward march today after an early period of irregularity. Operators for the advance, acting on the theory that the recent reaction had sufficiently corrected the weakened technical position of the market and that there was no immediate danger of a rise in money rates, started aggressive operations in a dozen or more specialties. Early gains in these issues ran from 4 to 10 points, with a much more moderate recovery in the standard industrials and rails.

Call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4½ per cent. Importation of more than $5,000,000 in gold from Canada also had a favorable effect on the credit situation. Bullish sentiment likewise was created by the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the St. Paul reorganization plan and by the reported increase in steel mill operations and the firming commodity price tendency.

Borden soared 9⅝ points to 181 by early afternoon and Mullins Body jumped 6 points to 81, both new high records. Freeport Texas, Reid Ice Cream, Christie Brown, Curtis Airplane preferred and Devoe & Reynolds also reached their best prices since 1926, or longer. Early losses of a point or so in General Motors and Radio were converted into moderate gains.

Speculative interest in the railroad group was divided between the establishment of new peak prices by the St. Paul issues and the resumption of the rise in Texas & Pacific to new high levels.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 5 to 10 points in response to disappointing cables which evidently brought in liquidation. Considerable southern selling also was reported and New Orleans was an active seller here in early trading.

March contracts sold off to 18.94c and May to 18.95c, net declines of 8 to 14 points on the active months. A few stop orders were uncovered on the break and after their execution the market steadied on trade buying and covering, prices showing rallies of 5 or 6 points from the lowest at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported hedging with continental and London liquidation in the Liverpool market and that the goods market at Manchester was hesitating, although there were still fair offers.

The market was less active later, but held generally steady on covering and further trade buying. Prices more than recovered the early losses, March selling up to 19.09c and May to 19.15c, and the general list ruling about net unchanged to 10 points higher at midday. The buying was accompanied by reports of a firm spot basis in the south.

Hudson and Manhattan Railroad.

It is not expected the present dividend rate of $2.50 annually on Hudson and Manhattan Railroad common stock will be increased to $3 at the next dividend meeting in April. Earnings last year were equal to about $4.70 a share on 339,349 shares of common stock after allowing for 5 per cent preferred dividends, which compares with $4.62 in 1926, the previous best year. Due to the opening of the Holland vehicular tunnel and the mild weather gross revenues for the last quarter of 1927 were held down to practically same level as in the corresponding period of 1926, while surplus after charges probably showed a slight decline. It was anticipated the Holland tunnel would temporarily cause a slight falling off of traffic, but it is expected that the development which will result in New Jersey and Manhattan from opening up of the tunnel will ultimately have a beneficial effect on traffic.

Recalling 1926 Reaction.

With the main body of stocks showing substantial declines from the recent highs, and meeting large offerings on rallies, some observers are wondering if a break similar to the collapse of March, 1926, is in the making. However, the consensus appeared to be that fundamental conditions are much stronger now than they were at that time. In the first place, money rates during the last year remained consistently easy despite the steady advance in stocks. In 1925 the rise in the market brought about stiffening credit conditions, which finally led to a break in March of the following year. Moreover, the bull market last year was considerably more selective than in 1925. In addition, the March, 1926, decline foreshadowed a recession in general business, whereas now industrial activity is picking up after a good-sized reaction in various lines during the final months of 1927.

NARROW RECESSIONS NOTED IN QUOTATIONS HERE

Hesitant Tone in Local Market

Dealings were on a small scale, but business was fairly well scattered, in the early half of today's session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. A little hesitation was noted in certain issues, mainly because of the sharp break in New York yesterday, but such recessions as were noted were confined to fractions in most cases.

United Engineering was handled in small amounts under 59, as compared with its recent high of 61. A few odd lots of May Drug came out around 20½, while Lone Star was handled at slightly above 58. The latter has been unusually quiet in recent markets, but some traders profess to see evidences of accumulation in the present price area under 55. Stockholders have approved the $20,000,000 additional capital proposed by the directors some time ago, but as yet the board has not made a formal announcement on the purpose for which the additional stock is to be used.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Corn prices underwent a decided early setback today on account of a bearish construction which many traders placed on the government crop report. Wheat showed relative firmness owing somewhat to official confirmation of heavy shortage of the yield in Australia. Starting at ⅜c to 1⅛c decline, corn displayed but little power to rally. Wheat opened unchanged to ⅜c off and kept near to the initial range. Oats were easy. Provisions also tended to sag.

At noon corn was ⅛c net decline to ⅛c advance, and wheat was showing ⅛@⅜c gain.

Corn bears made much today of the fact that the government's new figures on corn harvested as grain were larger than in 1926, whereas various unofficial authorities had been predicting a downward revision. On the other hand, some leading private experts contended today that the government report was of but little significance, as no attempt was made to differ from the previous official estimates on total yields or to estimate separately the amount of real merchantable grain.

Wheat prices here developed considerable firmness today after initial downturns. It was pointed out that Liverpool wheat quotations showed less decline than had been looked for and that the Australian government estimate of wheat production was more than 25,000,000 bushels under last year's total. Forecasts were also at hand that importing countries will require from the United States 216,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour for the season from August 1, 1927, to July 31, 1928.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The raw sugar market was quiet and unchanged early today at 4.36c for Cuban duty paid, with no sales reported. One sale of 46,000 bags at that figure was reported for January shipment to an outport refiner.

Raw sugar futures, easier under selling by houses with trade and Cuban connections, opened 1 to 4 points lower, but met considerable covering and commission house support. Rallies of several points followed with midday prices 1 to 2 points net lower. Private cables from Cuba said that the new crop would be restricted to 4,000,000 tons, and while this was considerably below last year's restricted output of 4,500,000 tons, it was offset by increases in other producing countries, and seemed to promote increased selling pressure.

There were no changes in the refined sugar situation, prices continuing at 5.90c for fine granulated, with demand only moderate.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—There were many demonstrations of strength and pronounced bullish activities in many issues on the curb market today indicating to observers that the speculative situation had assumed new strength and that another upward movement was in prospect. The variations in prices were mixed in the early trading, some further liquidation occurring in several stocks but the supply from this source was quickly absorbed and from early in the forenoon advances were in order. Some of the active issues made new high records for recent trading and a number showed gains ranging from 1 to over 10 points.

The announcement of the approval of the reorganization plan of the St. Paul System was reflected in heavy trading in St. Paul issues. More than $1,000,000 of the adjustment 5s changed hands, trading starting with a gain of a point at 63⅞ and dealings in the regular 5s also were heavy. The new common stock started with an advance of ⅛ to 26 and then dropped to 24½ and the preferred made a gain of a point to 44 which was lost under realizing within a short time. These recessions, however, were looked on as natural in the beginning of trading under the new conditions. Alabama Great Southern issues were strong.

Sheaffer Pen again was in prominence, advancing 10 points and Safety Heat and Lighting moved up 5 points. Baking stocks were among the strong features, General Baking "A" continued its upward movement, making a new high for recent years, selling above 85.

Utility stocks were active and strong, led by Providence Gas, which made a gain of 12 points.

Oil stocks also displayed strength, trading being increased by the further reduction in output of crude oil. The pipe line issues also were prominent, Southwest Penn advancing 5 points.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—Activity and strength of the St. Paul issues enlivened the otherwise quiet bond market today. Approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the reorganization plan announced after the close yesterday, provided the background for the sudden brisk demand for these issues. Otherwise the list appeared to mark time, as if traders were awaiting some definite indication of the trend in the money situation.

A few industrials attracted buying orders, notably Dominion Iron and Steel 5s and certificate 5s and Liquid Carbonic 6s. The leading rail issues were quiet, in most instances holding steady, and public utilities attracted only nominal attention.

The federal government group was inactive and prices showed little change.

French bonds were easy despite growing belief that the franc will soon be re-established on a gold basis following the lifting of the ban on exports of capital from that country. Other foreign bonds, with the exception of a few municipal issues, inclined to heaviness.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

STEEL MILLS SPEED OUTPUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say: Steel mill operations have shown a further gain reflecting the recent bulge in specifications against fourth quarter contracts. Steel ingot production in Pittsburgh and nearby districts has risen to 75 per cent of capacity, or almost 15 points above the low point of last month. The Steel Corporation has lighted two blast furnaces in the valleys and has added the second in two weeks at Chicago.

Sheet manufacturers have fully 500,000 tons of unfilled business, with independent mill operations averaging close to 80 per cent of capacity.

Little fresh buying has developed, but it is recognized that mill quotations face a real test as a result of effort of the automotive industry to shift the burden of recent concessions in motor car prices.

Encouraging developments are a continuation of railroad equipment buying, further rail purchases, large placements of fabricated steel and concrete bars and increased activity of farm implement manufacturers.

Pig iron shipments are increasing in the Detroit district because of foundries engaged in automobile work. The week's buying included 25,000 tons at Cleveland, 15,000 tons at Philadelphia and upward of 12,000 tons at St. Louis.

The Iron Age pig iron composite price has advanced to $17.59 a ton from $17.54 of the past four weeks, its low of recent years. The finished steel composite price remains at 2.314 cents a pound.

HORNSBY

loyal fans and supporters will bear with the club until such time as the results of this transaction are definitely decided on the playing field."

WILD RUMORS SILENCED

President Stoneham's statement was issued as a result of sensational stories current as to possible reasons for the transfer of the Giant captain and star second baseman to the Braves. It stressed the possibility of managerial conflict as the sole reasons for the trade.

No reference was made to statements by Hornsby in connection with the management of the Giants, but it has been known that the Rajah's friends have regarded him as the heir-apparent to the Giant throne when Manager John J. McGraw should abdicate.

Hornsby has been quoted as being in a receptive mood should the managerial lightning strike.

Stoneham's statement referred to statements which "have been made throughout the country that Mr. Hornsby would be the future manager of this club."

J. J. Tierney, secretary of the Giants, who acted for Stoneham in making the statement public, said that Hornsby leaves the club with the best wishes of the officers for his continued success in baseball.

BRAVES' WELFARE NOT AIM

Tierney characterized as "ridiculous" suggestions that the Giants had sent Hornsby to Boston to bolster up the Braves. He repeated previous statements that the club regarding the deal as a good one for the Giants. The Giants' secretary was even more emphatic in denying any financial interest of the Giants in the Braves, pointing out that the rules of baseball forbid interest of a company or individual in more than one club in a league.

The formal statement of the head of the Giants said "The club believes that in this deal it has been strengthened behind the bat and in the outfield," but close followers of National League baseball continued to regard the sensational baseball transaction as one-sided in favor of Boston.

No suggestion was made of any pending deals by which a second baseman might be added to the roster of Giants.

POLITICS, HORNSBY HINTS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—It was a highly surprised Rogers Hornsby who listened to the telephoned announcement last night that he had been traded to the Boston Braves by the New York Giants. Disbelief and astonishment mingled in his voice as he talked to newspapermen who gave him the first news of the sensational move.

A telegram from Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, later confirmed the trade and Hornsby apparently seeking a reason for the move said, "Maybe they're trying to build up the Boston Club."

"There has been nothing wrong that I know of," declared the star second baseman when asked if there was any friction between him and the New York Club. "I thought I was in pretty strong with the Giants. I figured I had a pretty good year and naturally I'm as astounded as anyone over my transfer."

Talking from his hotel room here Hornsby said he was looking forward to "even a better season in 1928 than I had last year."

"However, as I said before, maybe they want to strengthen the Braves in order to make a closer race in the National League," he continued. "I've heard the Giants own the Braves. Do you know whether that's true?"

FUCHS TELLS HOW HE DID IT

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—(INS.)—Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, revealed today how he obtained Rogers Hornsby from the New York Giants.

"It wasn't so difficult," he said. "About two weeks ago I asked McGraw and Stoneman if I could get Hornsby. Imagine my astonishment when they answered, 'You can get any man on the Giants if you give enough.'

"McGraw first asked for Hogan. We finally settled on Hogan and Welsh for Hornsby.

"I just talked with Hornsby on long distance. He is glad to come to Boston and says he will give us his best."

There is a slight divergence in opinion between Hornsby and Judge Fuchs concerning salary. Hornsby is not at all certain he will go to Boston unless he gets a three-year contract at $40,000, the salary called for by his present agreement with the Giants. He is the highest salaried player in the league.

Hornsby will be appointed captain of the local tribe, Manager Jack Slattery stated today. Boston's greatest need now, according to Manager Slattery, is a third baseman and the placing of Eddie Moore in the outfield.

M'GRAW SILENT

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 11.—(AP.)—"There is nothing to add to the original announcement," John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, said here today when asked for further details as to the reason for trading Rogers Hornsby to the Boston Braves.

McGraw passed through here on the "Havana Special," en route to Florida and Cuba.

"The trade has been made and that is all there is to it," he declared.

CITY HEADS TO STUDY AIRPORT

The construction of a new airport and the installation of an automatic traffic control system in the downtown "Triangle" are among the projects to be discussed at a conference of the members of Council, Mayor Charles H. Kline and Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

The conference, which will be held within a few days, will be arranged for the purpose of preparing a list of improvements to be included in a councilmanic bond issue. Council's borrowing margin now is about $2,000,000, reaching that point because of bond redemptions and credits. Action on a large number of demands for sewer and street improvements has been held over until after the conference.

LOMSKI TO BOX MIKE, SLATS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP.)—An intensive fistic program leading to another shot at Tommy Loughran's light-heavyweight crown yesterday was laid before Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., contender, by Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden.

Lomski, who twice floored the champion in an unsuccessful attempt to win the title last Friday night, agreed to battle Mike McTigue, former king of the 175-pounders, in the Garden February 3. The winner on February 24 will meet Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, N. Y., who lost to Loughran in a title tilt a month ago. The ultimate survivor will face the champion again on March 30.

COOK-COOS
by Ted Cook

(Copyright, 1928.)

Harry Thaw has escorted a blonde and a brunette to Hollywood, where he will sponsor their careers.

He's a two gal man from the East.

While launching their careers it is to be hoped—for Will Hays' sake—that nobody breaks champagne bottles over their heads,

* * *

Mister Thaw's first interview revealed an uncommon amount of good sense. He declared that "the intoxicating liquors in California are pretty bad."

* * *

A most exasperating cluck
Is Wilhelmina Stingle;
When she wants you to call her up
She says, "Give me a jingle."

A football team made up of policemen will play a team of firemen soon.

Can you imagine the plight of the referee trying to argue with half a dozen traffic cops?

If the score gets too close, a policeman can slip outside and turn in the fire alarm.

The hero of the day will be the policeman who shoots down the most forward passes.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS
I hope your wife will like me.

NEWARK.

SIR—

I WORK IN A HAT STORE. YESTERDAY A CUSTOMER CAME IN AND ASKED FOR A DERBY HAT. "WHAT SIZE?" I ASKED. "NEVER MIND THE SIZE," HE REPLIED SUDDENLY. "IT'S FOR A TROMBONE."

EX-PRESIDENT FILLMORE.

MR. FRISBY PREPARES FIRST ANNUAL MESSAGE

This is the first litle girl in the land to obtain Congressman Frisby's autograph. She has been invited to come to Washington and sit on the Congressman's lap.

By MISTER FRISBY,
Congressman-at-Large.

WASHINGTON — Following the precedent set by the President, I have hastily prepared my message to Congress, which I will deliver at the first opportunity.

The complete text is now available in pamphlet form, which I will forward on receipt of the price, which is 50 tracts for $1. If you want something to throw into parked autos, don't overlook this offer.

In brief, my message is as follows—

"It is an established fact that song birds destroyed 9,393,468 insects during the fiscal year. If women only knew of the destruction of bird life that their love of finery occasioned they would make it unfashionable to wear feathers of slaughtered birds on their hats. In 1886 over 5,000,000 birds were required to ornament ladies' hats. Is there anything more cheering around the home or farm than the singing of birds?"

"You Said It Marceline!"
By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "INTRIGUING SUBTLETIES"

SHE that has EARS, let her put PERFUME behind them, for
BEES are attracted to the
FLOWERS by their PERFUME,
And many a busy BUSINESS
MAN may pass up a pretty
BLOSSOM but for the delicate
SUGGESTION that reaches
His nostrils in the PASSING.
And——
She that has a NOSE, let her
Put POWDER on it, not PUBLICLY, preferably. But if
She wishes to ATTRACT the WORTHY male, or rather the
Wealthy MALE, she cannot Afford to let her nose so
SHINE before men that it
OFFENDS their eyesight.
And she that has EYES, let Them LOOK at but one man
For the EVENING, for this is
The supreme COMPLIMENT—to
Other men and not TOO
Dumb to one's HOST,
And she that uses a LIPSTICK
Let her REMEMBER that
This is not the only thing
Her LIPS were made for,
A KISS woos him, but
Honeyed words make him STICK,

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

WHEN Bobby Jones gave that $50,000 house back to his admirers he proved there was such a thing as being too smart.

If Bobby hadn't studied law he would have been dumb enough to keep that castle.

Now he is an amateur again, without a home. He doesn't require one. Any niblick stubber who grabs the English open, the Mongolian amateurs and the Australian laurels every year is the Lindbergh of the fairways.

The only time Lindbergh sees his home is when he gets lost in a fog. The only instances in which Jones could possibly get near home is when he slices.

Therefore, Bobby's latchkey is a curio. But not an heirloom.

Anyway, Bobby didn't get innoculated with regret when he was forced to put back the mansion. It was a pretty shack. But there was only room enough in the front yard for three holes.

If his hundred admirers want to give Jones a useful gift they should have given him a warehouse—for his silver cups.

He is already using the Atlanta depot for a trophy room. He has more ornamental cups than an Elk City barber.

This gift and its kick-back brings up that old question. When is an amateur not a professional?

You cannot compare an amateur with a coal miner. The comparison is not fair to the amateur. The miner works underground, but takes his pay on the surface.

The line to the pay window always forms on the right. We have seen amateur fighters, football players and other exponents of violent remuneration.

And the definition of an amateur is a lad who forms on the left.

If Jones had not been hampered by a legal education he could have hired a lawyer and kept that palace. We hope that the egg-headed officials who took that home away from Bobby will feel better now that they have compelled him to play golf without a roof over his head.

We would like to see them try to take a home away from Tommy Armour, Hagen or Sarazen. They might do it, but they would get it brick by brick.

Voluntary Action Could Have Averted Coal Probe

There are two new developments in the bituminous coal situation. The Pittsburgh Coal Company posted notices of a "readjustment" of wages. The readjustment is a cut for several classes of employes, ranging 40 to 60 cents a day. The United States Senate referred to its Committee on Interstate Commerce a resolution by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, which would empower the committee to investigate conditions at the mines in Western Pennsylvania and adjacent regions.

The two actions are not associated except as coincidences. The wage readjustment had been decided upon before the Senate took action. Reports that it was to be made were current before notices of the decision of the coal company had been posted at its collieries. But they can be coupled in their significance.

Conditions in the coal trade are bad. Should the Senate decide its committee shall investigate, it will ascertain that fact. It may ascertain other reasons for this state of affairs besides the oft-repeated one that there are too many mines and too many miners for the amount of business.

This could have been developed at an informal conference such as was suggested by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis. Blame for the failure of that move can be placed squarely upon the shoulders of the big coal operators. A voluntary revelation of conditions might have placed the mine owners in a much better light than involuntary testimony requested by the committee, should it be authorized to conduct an inquiry.

The public cannot and does not expect coal operators to do the impossible. They cannot pay wages higher than is warranted by their business. On the other hand, they cannot take a high-handed attitude, assuming a strictly private stand in a matter so vitally affecting the public, and expect to receive the moral support of that public.

There is a higher authority for all things of which private individuals are only custodians. And they are answerable for their custodianship.

Electric Traffic Control Ideal But Difficult Here

Electric traffic control in the Golden Triangle is to be considered at a conference between Council and the Better Traffic Committee, which recently sent to Council a report on such a system. The estimated cost for 100 points recommended to be covered, after a study of traffic conditions in the downtown area, is $112,000.

Operating expense is estimated to be $16,000 a year less than under the present system, besides releasing men from traffic duty and making them available for service elsewhere. Electric control would operate 16 hours daily. Traffic officers work eight hours

There is no doubt that electric control is the more economical and systematic way of regulating the movement of traffic streams. The trouble is to make it adaptable to Pittsburgh, where the traffic flow at various points presents problems not present in places having a wholly rectangular street arrangement.

Intervals of east and west traffic and of north and south movements are the ideal arrangement. If the committee has found a way to bring that about, even approximately, the system would be a good one to adopt. No doubt the Better Traffic Committee has devised a plan that can be worked else it would not go before Council with a recommendation.

If it has found a way that will prove satisfactory its members not only should receive thanks but they should receive public recognition as wizards.

Pittsburgh Gang Warfare Rivals That in Chicago

Gang murders have given Chicago an unenviable reputation. The frequency of crimes of violence in that city and the seeming inability of the police to capture the operators of machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and pistols seems to be duplicated in Pittsburgh.

Another victim was added to the lengthy toll of gang warfare here when a man prepared to do some slaying himself was killed in an automobile. Beside him was a sawed-off shotgun and a pistol, according to reports giving details of the murder in which death came to him. This, coupled with the charge that he had a police record, is regarded as evidence that he, too, was a gangster.

The gang method of reducing the number of gangsters is effective, but not satisfactory to the public. Innocent bystanders often are killed. The police department is supposed to care for the public safety and it will fail in its fundamental duty if it permits rival gangs of thugs to continue to make Pittsburgh their bloody battlefield.

Atheism Is Impossible
Saying, "I Don't Believe," Men Believe.

Charles Lee Smith, of New York, who thinks he is an atheist but isn't, because real atheism is IMPOSSIBLE, bothered the Rev. Dr. Stratton with pamphlets, was arrested and released under $500 bail.

No man should interfere with anybody else's religion in this country, which guarantees religious freedom.

Dr. Stratton has a right to believe that the whale swallowed Jonah without hurting him. Mr. Charles Lee Smith has a right to believe that Jonah swallowed the whale, or to believe nothing at all.

Each should respect the other's rights here on this earth, and let anybody think what he chooses about what is going to happen later. We shall all know, soon enough, what happens after the clods fall on the coffin.

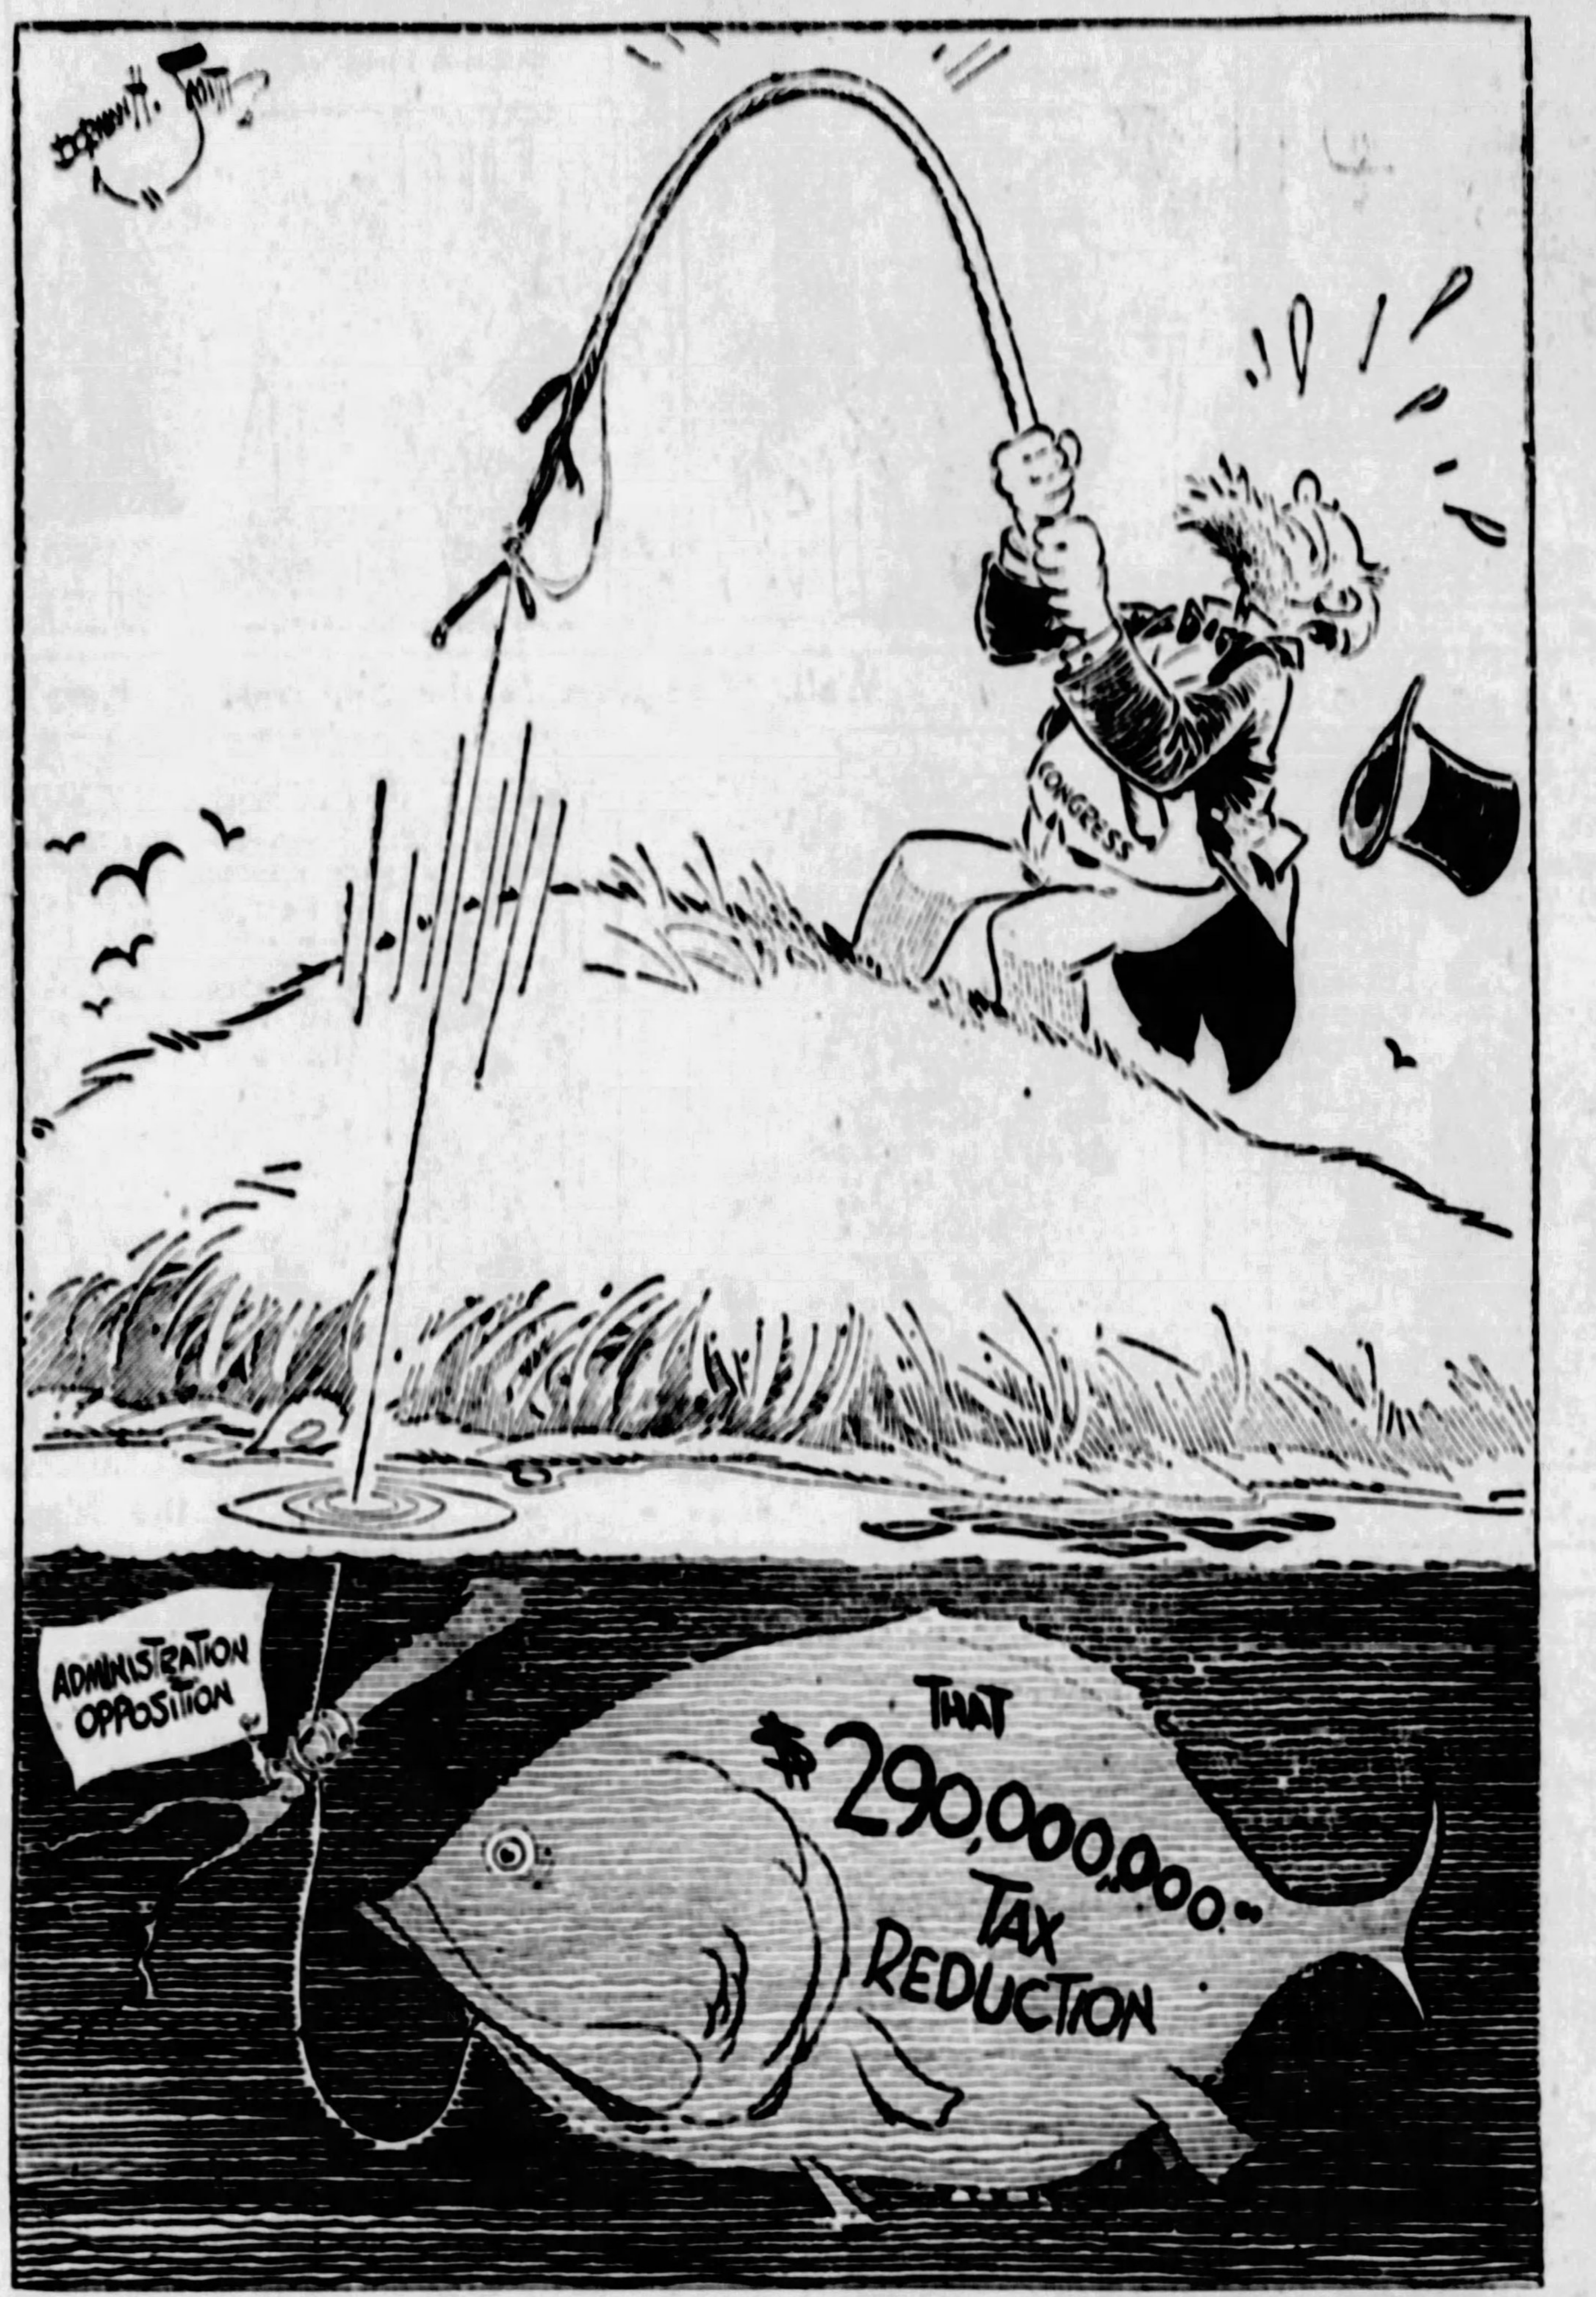
We've Had One Lesson
It Should Last 100 Years.

Monsieur de Jouvenal, once French delegate to the League of Nations, says England and the United States will be on opposite sides in another European war. Naval rivalry is going to make trouble between England and America, says de Jouvenal, and "1935 will be the crucial year."

The majority of Americans hope there won't be any European war between now and 1935, and in any case, they intend that this country shall not be on ANY side of any such war.

We have had ONE lesson; no more needed for 100 years, thank you.

HOOKED BUT NOT LANDED



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Science for Religion

DR. SIGMUND FREUD, of Vienna, famous for his "Eros" or "Libido" type of psycho-analysis, has put forth a book which seems to offend a great many, even of his own disciples, by denouncing religion as a pure illusion, while exalting science as the only real thing. Religion, he declares, is irrelevant to human life as compared with science. A great many observant and thinking persons may ask, in reply, "What, then, is the relevance of science to man's moral nature?"

It is certainly not irrelevant here to recall that almost coincidently with the appearance of Freud's book attacking religion there died in America a man of science, of high standing in technical circles, whose task in life, according to one of his most intimate friends, was "to show that there was no conflict between science and religion." That man was Frank W. Very, the astronomer. I, myself, knew Very for many years, and I am sure that he would have repudiated with scorn Freud's claim that science is all there is for man. H. H. Clayton, the friend mentioned, has written that Very was "profoundly impressed by the contributions of Swedenborg to philosophy, science and religion, and during the last years of his life was engaged in explaining these contributions in the language of modern science."

Very was a man of the type to throw himself into the ungated flood of modern skepticism and moral recklessness in an effort to prevent the sweeping away of the anchors of humanity. On the other hand, such utterances as those ascribed to Freud are attacks upon the dykes that still guard the world against the increasing rush of criminality, immorality and malevolent selfishness.

Science, forsooth, is to take the place of religion in man's life! How many men of real science will subscribe to that doctrine? What is the meaning of the fact that all over the world, wherever the forces of anarchy, murder, cruelty and inhumanity rage, religion is abandoned, denounced and persecuted, while—sad to say—science is called upon to furnish arms for the assault, and supply deceptive salves for the outraged conscience that lurks somewhere in the soul of even the basest criminal?

Science has its own work, which, when performed in its true spirit, cannot be too highly exalted; but that work pertains to the intellect in its relations to the material world, and to the things that the intellect can provide for the amelioration of the physical existence of man. In this way science is the glory of man, the amazing sum of his own achievements. Nor does science necessarily go astray when it seeks to penetrate the mystery of the operations of the mind, though it cannot retain in such research the rigid certainty of its proceedings in the purely material world. Psychoanalysis and mathematical analysis are not akin.

But, to assert that science can supply the place of that meditation upon one's inner self, and its destiny which constitutes the essence of religion, is nonsense on the one hand and a snare on the other. It is not his intellectual power, but his moral sense that chiefly differentiates man from the brutes. Within the scope of its environment the bird making a nest is no less to be admired than man building a skyscraper. Spiders had submarines and aeroplanes ages before man. To be sure, starting without them man reasoned up to them; but his reason did not carry him outside of the possibilities of physical nature. That is reserved for his religious side by which alone he rises out of the ruck of materiality.

Sweetheart—$4 Sort

COUNTESS de JANZE, arrested for shooting her sweetheart, an Englishman, in Paris, is the latest victim of French justice. She has been fined $4 and giv[illegible] months' imprisonment, the sentence being susp[illegible] however, as she was a first offender. How many lovers may a lady shoot?

However, if he was that kind of a sweetheart, a $4 one, perhaps the court was justified. He was no American admirer or the fine probably would have gone up to $10, as American lovers are good spenders and valuable.

Why No Money

"WHY is it that among those actively engaged in the news department of newspapers, there are so few, comparatively, who have bank accounts of any considerable size?"

This is a question often voiced.

It has been further stated that it takes a man of more than ordinary intelligence to be a success on the news force.

The answer lies principally in the fact that the nature of news-getting requires considerable traveling about to meet and mingle with people.

This costs money.

It costs time, for a newspaper man must think, plan and scheme to get a good story. He must devote considerable time to working out details as well as to writing, and it takes as much time as other men spend in making deals which bring them considerable money.

The newspaper man's success is the satisfaction gained from the appearance of a good story, which may not live more than the day it comes out.

The real newspaper man must keep his mind on his job and cannot allow it to rove to other matters.

The Rhyming Optimist
By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Builder

HE IS an old man, gray and bent,
The builder for the town.
His eyes are peaceful, well-content,
Hands rough, skin lined and brown.

He was a youth, so straight and strong,
And as he worked he sang;
He built men's homes, the whole day long
His merry hammer rang.

He built men's homes where youth and love
Would enter, hand in hand,
Where joy and hope and pain would move
With time's swift-falling sand.

For birth, for death, men's homes each day
He built, for smiles, for tears;
What romance flowered on his way
Through all his toil-filled years!

Isn't It So?

Where there's a will, there's a loophole.

Minister Needs Money, Too

REVERAND MARTIN A. DE HAAN, of Grand Rapids, Mich., has just spurned an increase of $1,000 a year which his congregation was anxious to give him for meritorious work. He says his present salary of $8,000 is enough. He has a wife and four children.

The minister should have accepted, considering his responsibilities. Bringing up children costs money. Besides, there is no reason why a minister shouldn't make a good living as well as a bricklayer or a plumber.

All reports to the contrary, starvation wages do not produce the best work in any man.

New York Day by Day
by
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The dangerous age seems to justify itself along Broadway, for the gayest of Romeos are past 40. They are ripe fruit for the White Way shakedown. Girls experienced in the science of gold digging are not interested in moon-struck sprigs.

They find pay dirt among those graying at the temples, the kind who adjust their glasses to read the menus. These are the sly foxes who after 18 or 20 years of the marriage yoke come to a sudden realization they are "misunderstood at home."

And so they step out for a final gallop after romance before the arrival of the chimney corner and carpet slippers. That there is no fool like an old fool is strikingly illustrated on Broadway after dark. Here you see gay old boys clutching at the rosy adventure.

Strangely enough they are often men who gained eminence in a two-fisted manner in the business world and yet are made complete saps by a baby curl or a lisp. Likely as not they have grand children, but they get a glorious kick out of being called "Daddums."

Just last night I sat next table to a venerable Lothario who seemed completely entranced by the ookielckle talk of one of those wide-eyed kiddies who was in the preliminary stage of weeping him out of a ring she saw that morning at Cartier's.

And later the same evening in another haunt she was cooing to one of those vaselined young men with immobile expressions who clipped his few comments out the side of a tight lipped mouth. He probably would escort her home on a street car and she would love it.

Broadway looks lightly on philandering among youth and middle age. It has the tolerant attitude that after all ladies must live. If a maid can take an old bozo for the proverbial "cleaning," she is in the Broadway world "a smart kid." And give her a hand.

One of the fine new hotels has no private dining rooms. Those wanting to give dinner parties are provided with completely equipped suites with all the comforts of home. And poseurs may create the impression of living there.

New York has several newsboys who see more of the world than ordinary folk. One month they may be hawking papers at Brooklyn Bridge, the next in Los Angeles, the next in Palm Beach with occasional excursions to Paris and London and so on.

A newsboy in a downtown skyscraper does not sell newspapers in the ordinary way. He has them on display and customers pay him at intervals. He renders no bills and anyone may take the favorite journal. His income in this fashion is far above the average.

Overheard from an adjoining cafe booth:

"Try again to say it. You're not that tight."

"'S no use but I'll try. Here goes: Thigs and fistles!"

The gentleman in a silk hat who walks the streets in full evening dress making his shirt front at intervals an illuminated ad. for a cigar was standing in front of the opera the other evening. A teetering gentleman came around the corner to have the sign flash in his face. He blinked, shook himself like a wet dog and exclaimed: "That's the way I feel inside, Mister, but it doesn't show."

* * *

This new idea in walking advertisements comes from Paris and has long added a touch of gayety to the boulevards. It is in a way the glorification of the old-time sandwich man, who, encased turtle-like in billboards, walked slowly along the gutter. Now he wears silk hats, evening clothes and swings a walking stick.

The Feelings of a Trout
By DR. FRANK CRANE

Information has just come from James L. Walker, an expert on trout and trout customs, which is very interesting.

The average peaceful citizen thinks nothing of going out and killing a few trout to have them for breakfast. But put yourself in the trout's place. How would you like to be killed just to "make a Roman holiday!"

Now comes Mr. Walker and points out that trout, as well as men, have feelings. For 20 years he has been on the Utah Fishing Bureau and ought to know something about his business.

He has hatched trout eggs and they say that some of them which he put under Rhode Island Reds were hatched with feathers.

He says that through the study of trout one begins to understand human nature.

Trout grow from six to 18 inches long and seldom weigh over 15 pounds.

The mamma scratches a nest in the gravel, lays a mess of eggs and forgets them. The papa just sails over the eggs and fertilizes them in transit and he, too, passes on.

Only about five per cent of the eggs hatch. The rest are eaten up by other fish.

The trout children, like human children, have a tendency to turn out bad. They became bandits, cannibals, pirates and murderers, but we have to make allowances for the lack of home culture.

The trout are not naturally cannibalistic and only when they are starving do they devour each other. A hungry fish, however, will eat all his relatives without remorse.

The main trouble with the home life of the trout is that he hasn't any. The mother lays her eggs and runs away and the father does not even seem to be conscious of any romantic attachment.

Trout have their hates, fears, joys and other experiences like human beings. That they have abandoned home life may teach something to the Bolsheviks.

Something is to be said for the trout as a pet. He never has fleas and he is not under foot all the time. Also if you put him in a pool of water he is liable to stay there.

Resilient Minds

HE IS delightfully insane, is that animated pair of blue jeans, my inventor friend; insane about the mechanical children of his brain.

His latest offspring is a coupler whose chief adjective is resilient. No more nerves jarred from their moorings when the interstate limited hesitates at Podunk; no more omelets made when the egg car debouches onto a siding.

That adjective resilient is equally at home in overalls or tuxedo. It is alike indigenous to the states of poverty and wealth.

I know one who is a golden-tongued Chrysostom, an orator of mervelous magnetic power. At 21 has was illiterate. He had just returned from the highways of the sea which he had been following since his early teens when he ran away from home.

One day in a class in a great university he had the temerity to take issue with the professor on a point in economics. The other students were shocked at the impertinence of one who had never even attended a High School.

But the professor heard the young man patiently and insisted upon his right to express his opinion. And when he had done the professor said:

"This young man is right and I am wrong. And as to you others it may be well for you to remember that it matters not so much what college you have been through but whether a college has been through you."

And my friend said to me, "that was the supreme moment of my life."

That professor had a resilient mind, the truest badge of a great scholar and a great soul.

So many of our ideas are set in concrete, or plaster of paris, or portland cement. To move them requires an earthquake of the emotions or a charge of social dynamite like the French Revolution.

The ultimate of mental fixity is bigotry. Static ideas soon become reactionary. Without resilience of mind one soon finds himself pulling more on the breeching than on the traces.

Everything is grist to the mill of the resilient mind. He is the advance courier of all progress, the John the Baptist of every Messiah.

All She Knew

AN ARDENT suitor was calling on his country sweetheart. Accidentally, he dropped a pawn-ticket on the floor when reaching for a handkerchief which the girl had dropped.

"What's that?" asked the observant maiden, who had never seen a sample of the familiar pasteboards.

The youth turned a brilliant red, but honesty was his policy.

"Just a pawn-ticket," he replied.

"Then why didn't you get two so that we could both go?" asked the innocent.
